

Teachers Accept Pact, Schools Open Tomorrow

NEW YORK (UPI)—New York City teachers voted by an overwhelming majority today to accept an agreement ending their 10-week strike which has kept more than one million students in the nation's largest public school system out of classes for all but 11 days of the fall term.

But there still was danger that the settlement could be scuttled by the local governing board of the largely Negro and Puerto Rican Ocean Hill-Brownsville district in Brooklyn where a dispute over teacher transfers triggered the long and bitter citywide strike. The teachers twice returned to work earlier in the strike, only to walk out again.

However, schools are expected to be open Tuesday.

According to the Associated Press, Mayor John V. Lindsay announced the tentative accord Sunday afternoon, following 27 hours of continuous talks at Gracie Mansion, his official residence.

Pending outcome of the voting, "the schools will remain closed," UFT President Albert Shanker said.

Some union members have voiced strong objection to the plan to end the strike of the public school system's 55,000 teachers.

Shanker Cheered, Heckled

Shanker, cheered by 17,000 union teachers packing Madison Square Garden Sunday afternoon, was heckled, however, at a meeting of the UFT's delegate assembly with many persons milling about and some shouting, "Sell-out!"

The new contract terms include removal of three principals from the predominantly Negro and Puerto Rican Ocean Hill-Brownsville school district in Brooklyn, the focal point of three strikes this school term and another last spring.

Ocean Hill is one of three experimental districts in the city providing for community control of education.

Also, the Ocean Hill eight-school district will be supervised by Herbert F. Johnson, a trustee named by state Education Commissioner James E. Allen Jr. Johnson is associate state commissioner of education.

The local governing board and Rhody McCoy, unit administrator of the district, who were suspended earlier in the dispute will remain suspended until Allen is satisfied the board and McCoy are cooperating with the trustee.

Ouster Started It

In addition, the pact calls for return of 79 white teachers to classroom assignments in the district. Their ouster by the governing board from the district started the strike, with the union saying job security and due process were at stake. However, the dispute has taken on racial overtones.

The governing board said the unwanted teachers were attempting to undermine the concept of school decentralization. The board told 19 white teachers last spring to leave the district and about 100 other union teachers walked out in sympathy, shutting down the district's schools for the remainder of the term.

The settlement proposal also provides for establishment of a three-member committee appointed by Allen to resolve all questions of involuntary transfers, charges against teachers and charges of harassment of any teacher.

Charge Threats

The teachers unwanted by Ocean Hill have said they were threatened by other teachers in the schools. The return of the white teachers as the fall term began touched off community demonstrations and resulted in several arrests.

Even before the tentative settlement was announced the Rev. C. Herbert Oliver, chairman of the Ocean Hill board, told news- men as he left Gracie Mansion: "We are extremely saddened by the decision imposed on us to settle this illegal strike. . . . It is obvious that the black and Puerto Rican people of the city are not going to be allowed to determine the future of their children. It is equally obvious that this may be the beginning of the end of Ocean Hill-Brownsville."

The 100-block area of the district with 8,000 students, has about 125,000 persons—71 per cent of them Negroes, 24 per cent Puerto Ricans, 4 per cent whites, and one per cent Orientals.

ervisory Associations; UFT President Albert Shanker; Lindsay; and State Education Commissioner James E. Allen. (UPI TELEPHOTO.)

Poughkeepsie Vow: To Rebuild Church

By SHANE CROSBY

POUGHKEEPSIE — "It is a sad thing to see a church go down, but the church will be rebuilt and the people will respond."

The Rev. Joseph M. Pernicone, Poughkeepsie area bishop and pastor of Holy Trinity Church in Arlington, spoke after viewing the fire-gutted ruins of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church near Main Street in the city.

He said no estimate of loss could be given except that "it seems everything is gone" in the 80-year-old structure.

The Bishop said rebuilding of the south-side Poughkeepsie landmark was a certainty. Discussions will have to be held, he said, but "it will be rebuilt on the same site." The structure is located in a residential area on the South side of the city.

Nothing But the Shell

A three-alarm fire left nothing but the shell of the church after firemen fought for more than eight hours.

Poughkeepsie Fire Department Captain Horace Hopps said that the first call was received at 4:11 p.m. Sunday and was followed by two more alarms at 4:12 and 4:22.

He said an unidentified man made the first call from a fire box in a school yard across from the church. Numerous other calls were placed by area residents at the same time.

All off-duty firemen of the Poughkeepsie department were called to help control the blaze. Companies from neighboring communities were called in to cover for the city firefighters during the battle that lasted until 12:45 a.m.

Cause of the fire is being investigated, Hopps said, but officials feel there is a connection with a church ceremony held a few hours before the firemen arrived.

Hopps said the fire "seemed to be smoldering for more than an hour" before the first units reached the scene.

Captain Hopps said that the firefighters worked in "very mild" weather and the water pressure was adequate.

Only one man was injured in the blaze, said Hopps. The injured man had cut his wrist when he broke through a window of the burning structure.

Priests were removed from the living quarters of the church when it was feared that the east wall would topple, water had flooded the quarters and rubble from the building was strewn over the parish property.

The bishop said that the communion eucharist in the tabernacle of the church could not be reached during the blaze.

School for more than 480 students of St. Mary's was called off today. Masses scheduled today for the parish were held in the church's convent chapel and in the auditorium of the school.

Bishop Pernicone said that no decision has been made for the holding of Masses this Sunday, but felt the school building and the convent would be used.

No estimate was made by church or school officials as to when children might be able to return to the elementary school.

Arson Discounted

Arson is discounted by fire authorities at this time. Investigators were sifting through the rubble, aiming for the boiler room of the church.

One official said that an explosion was heard but felt that it was due to the intense heat.

More than 125 men fought the fire. They included city firefighters as well as County Mutual Aid firemen from surrounding towns.

About 12 pieces of equipment were at the scene and police and auxiliary forces were active keeping traffic on the move around the area.

Fire lines were set up to contain the large crowd viewing the blaze.

Archbishop at Centennial

Archbishop Terence J. Cooke talks over 100th anniversary celebration with the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John J. O'Reilly, pastor of St. Joseph's Church and dean of Ulster County Roman Catholic clergy. His Excellency presided at the solemnly celebrated Mass Sunday 5 p. m. at the church and later attended an anniversary dinner at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Former assistant pastors of St. Joseph's as well as priests who were former parishoners participated in the Mass. The sermon was delivered by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. James Hart, pastor of the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, Bronx. The present church of St. Joseph's was originally the first armory of the city of Kingston and was purchased in 1868. Included in the present parish is an auxiliary chapel on Zandhook Road, Hurley, built to meet the expanding needs in 1964. The parish school complex including the new building at Pearl and Wall Streets serves 600 children. Archbishop Cooke made his fourth visit to Ulster County for the festivities Sunday. Since becoming head of the Archdiocese of New York in April he toured the county in May; officiated at dedication of Benedictine Hospital Pavilion and St. Mary's School Saugerties and most recently at the dedication of John A. Coleman Catholic High School. (Freeman photo by Powell)

Weather Miseries Hit Skiers, Hunters

By JEAN F. DOLAN

The weekend was a washout weatherwise and the forecast calls for more of the same soggy mess.

A crazy mixture of rain, wet snow and freezing rain pelted Ulster County throughout the weekend, dampening the spirits of skiers and hunters alike.

Hopeful hunters who started into the woods early this morning in search of big game are due for a dunking or at the very least a good soaking from the continuing rains and wet underbrush.

Belleayre Ski Center which had its earliest opening ever Saturday had to close down almost immediately as fog and rain ate into the accumulated snow. Approximately 200 skiers braved weather's bag of tricks Saturday morning to ski for free. Although "a little snow" fell on the mountain last night, this morning it was again fog and rain and ground cover down to zero.

Highway Crews Out

County highway crews were called out Saturday night and early Sunday morning in the Shandaken, Phoenicia area where sanding operations were necessary. Hazardous road conditions existed in several parts of the county at about midnight as the storm went from snow to freezing glaze and then back to all day rain on Sunday.

Kingstonians woke up to a quarter inch of snow cover Sunday morning. Hail and rain followed for a total weekend precipitation of 63 hundredths of an inch.

If you can just bear with it, all this snow, rain, sleet, hail and what have you is doing the water table a world of good. After a below normal water accumulation during October, November promises to make up the deficit. To date 3.05 inches of moisture have been recorded by the city engineer's office. The total for the entire month of October was a mere 2.91 inches.

Yesterday's temperatures remained below freezing throughout the day, ranging from a 26 degree low to a 32 degree high.

Gloomy Forecast

Gloom clouds the weather scene for the rest of the week.

According to the Associated Press extended forecast through Saturday there are snow, rain and below normal temperatures in our immediate future. Snow flurries are expected Tuesday and Wednesday with rain by Friday and Saturday. Sound familiar?

The daytime highs in the Hudson Valley are foreseen hovering in the 40s with nighttime lows mainly in the 20s.

As bad as it may seem here, much of the rest of the country is experiencing even more severe weather.

Northern border states from the Dakotas to New England are under a cold rain and snow blanket which has slicked roads and hampered travel over a wide area.

Below the snow line, it was rain, rain and more rain. Twisters wound destructive paths through some southern states.

An invasion of Arctic air was blamed for the widespread weather mixup. Cold air headed south met chaotically with warm Gulf air over the Southeast.

What ever the meteorological reasons, the only recourse seems to be button up your overcoat, pull on your boots and bear with it.

'Heidi' And the NBC-TV 'Goat,' Even Kids Join in the Protests

HEIDI AND NBC "GOAT"

NEW YORK (UPI)—When Heidi, an orphan girl, first went to live with her granddad and his goat herd in the Swiss alps 98 years ago, little did she know she wouldn't live happily ever after.

That was before the birth of the American armchair quarterback. And that was before television.

For almost a century, children read the world over have read with happy eyes Johanna Spyri's story of Heidi's sweet, simple life.

But when the small orphan stepped onto television screens across America Sunday night, millions of enraged adults, and some kids, booted.

Even Some Kids Boo

They were angry because Heidi, tiny and blonde, knocked down their huge heroes—fellows named Preston Ridlehuber, Daryl Lamonica, Joe Namath, Jim Turner, Charley Smith—all large, grown men who make their living by running into each other.

It all started when the National Broadcasting Co. (NBC) cut off the last minute and five seconds of the Oakland Raiders-New York Jets American Football League game so a two-hour color special on Heidi could start on time.

At that point, New York led 32-29 and seemed assured of a victory with just 65 seconds left in the game.

But on came Smith, Lamonica and Ridlehuber to score two touchdowns in that brief spell to give Oakland a 43-32 win—A win millions of television viewers from Denver all the way East didn't see.

Switchboard Jammed

While Heidi was tending the goat herd and Ridlehuber was toting the pigskin, millions of angry television fans were jamming switchboards at NBC, Daryl Lamonica, Joe Namath, Jim Turner, Charley Smith—all stations wanting to know what happened.

What happened was that an unidentified "high official" in the NBC programming department decided that millions of children wanted to see Heidi, so the last 65 seconds of the football game were cut off. As it turned out, they were 65 of the most action-packed seconds of the football season.

Among the television fans who missed the final football minute was Julian Goodman, who said, "I missed seeing the game as much as anyone else."

Goodman happens to be NBC president. He said Heidi preempted the Jets and Raiders because of the nation's children, not because Heidi's story cost its sponsor $850,000 to produce.

"It was a forgivable error committed by humans who were concerned about the children who were expecting to see 'Heidi' at 7 p.m.," said Goodman of the football cutoff. "NBC made a mistake," said another network spokesman. "It regrets it deeply."

Unless Viet War Ends

Forecasts Surtax Continuation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The top Republican on the powerful House Ways and Means Committee says the 10 per cent income surtax will have to be continued unless there is a quick reduction of the Vietnam war.

Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin says, however, that if the shooting war should end in the next three months it might then be possible to abolish the tax, or perhaps cut it in half.

Richard M. Nixon said during his successful presidential campaign that the surtax was a "war tax" and should not be extended past its scheduled expiration date of June 30.

Byrnes indicated he is not necessarily at odds with the president-elect in his opposition to eliminating the tax unless there is a reduction in the war.

"I think Nixon expressed the hope rather than a reality," the Wisconsin congressman said in an interview. "We have to be realistic. What does your budget situation look like now, but in March or April?"

But even if the Vietnam situation does ease soon, it would remain difficult for Byrnes and Nixon to eliminate or reduce the tax.

Wilbur D. Mills, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, which usually holds life-and-death-control over tax legislation, has come out strongly against any cutback of the surtax in the near future.

The Arkansas Democrat says even if the war ends soon he would be against elimination of the surtax.

"We may as well face the fact that the cessation or lessening of hostilities will bring immediate demands from all sides for additional spending on the domestic front," Mills said last week.

"I think it would be a mistake to assume that (cutting back the tax) would be the solution to our expenditure control program," Mills said.

Both Byrnes and Mills seemed to agree that the tax should not be eliminated if it would mean an increased federal deficit.

Byrnes' said the surtax, which brings in $12 billion to $14 billion a year, should not be eliminated unless other sources of revenue could take its place.

"It is possible we can eliminate the surtax if there is a change in the budget picture," Byrnes said.

French Franc Slump Continues, Banking Nations to Aid de Gaulle

PARIS (UPI)—The French franc slumped further today. Banks in neighboring Belgium suspended private trading in the franc.

France's currency, Brussels financial sources said.

The United States and other banking nations conferred in Basel, Switzerland, on how to come to the aid of President Charles de Gaulle's once proud franc.

In Brussels, bank sources said quotations on selling and buying francs has been halted. They reported some panic, several banks hiring taxis and autos to carry their francs over the border to France where—in case of devaluation—the French banknotes will retain their face value. A major Brussels travel agency said it had "strict" orders not to buy or sell francs.

In Italy, however, Rome banks today handled the French currency in normal fashion when doors opened.

In Paris financiers watched to see if the franc continued to be dumped on the currency markets and if Frenchmen grabbed for more gold on the bullion market.

In Basel, Switzerland, slipping through hotel kitchens in a vain attempt to escape attention, banking chiefs of the United States, West Germany, Britain,

Japan and other nations met and discussed how to aid the franc as they did the dollar and the pound in the past year.

Message To People

Premier Maurice Couve de Murville was scheduled to make a national broadcast tonight. He was expected to announce save-the-franc austerity measures, hints of which were leaked to Paris newspaper over the weekend.

It was all very embarrassing for De Gaulle. Banking sources said he had the gold and reserves in government vaults to withstand the run on the franc.

But political observers said it was an ordeal for the president who only months ago hailed the franc as far sounder than the pound or the dollar and, in fact, used that earlier prestige in a vain effort to devalue the dollar and have the capitalist world return to the gold standard.

Basically, the economic trouble stemmed from the student riot and national strike of late spring and early summer. In the money markets where the prime ingredient is confidence the franc lost its luster.

The trend became an avalanche last week, despite De Gaulle raising interest rates from 5 to 6 per cent to keep francs off the money market. Some reports said as much as $1 billion in francs were dumped onto the Frankfurt, Germany, money market alone last week. The price of gold jumped past $40 an ounce for the first time in several months.

As the franc went down, the West German mark—unsullied by the money ailments plaguing its major allies the past few years—boomed. As traders tried to sell francs, they bought marks.

The unsettling speculation of a devaluation of the franc—denied by De Gaulle's government—and reports the mark might be upped in value in relation to the U.S. dollar brought to Basel American delegate Charles Coombes, Bank of England Governor Sir Leslie O'Brien and Dr. Karl Blessing, head of the West German Federal Bank.

U.S. Advises Saigon to Come to Talks

PARIS (UPI)—The United States has told South Vietnam it will not negotiate new talk terms with Hanoi and firmly advised Saigon to come to the conference table, allied diplomats said today.

They also said Washington told Saigon it "cannot constitutionally accept" the United States taking a back seat to South Vietnam at the bargaining table.

High diplomatic sources said Washington's firm advice to Saigon apparently followed a new and stiff warning from Hanoi that North Vietnam will not agree to South Vietnam's demand that the Viet Cong get less than equal status at the negotiations.

South Vietnam has been boycotting and stalling Hanoi. Washington planned talks here that would bring in Saigon and the United States on one side and North Vietnam and the Viet Cong on the other.

Demand Leadership

Besides demanding the Viet Cong be seated only as part of the Hanoi delegation, the South Vietnamese had demanded it and not the United States lead the anti-Communist team at the table.

The diplomats said the American message was given to President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam in Saigon.

The diplomatic reports came amid a new wave of unofficial reports that Thieu would reshuffle his cabinet shortly before announcing an end to the boycott and acceptance of the talks invitation.

Communists Confident

North Vietnam appeared confident, as were many diplomats, that talks could start soon. Its leader here said it expects Saigon to come to the bargaining table "in due time."

In Saigon, meanwhile, a South Vietnamese general today said North Vietnamese troops are driving across the border Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) despite Paris talk arrangements. Allied forces 100 miles south of the frontier killed 282 Communists and smashed a terror spree in the city of Da Nang in weekend battling.

In Da Nang, Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, South Vietnamese commander of his nation's five northern provinces, told UPI correspondent Perry Young the North Vietnamese are pushing south over the DMZ in company-sized units.

"Now that we've stopped the bombing (of North Vietnam), they are still operating in the southern side," the general said. He called it Hanoi's "winter campaign plan."

According to diplomats in Paris, Hanoi had agreed to de-escalate its war machine in the DMZ in order to get Paris settlement talks underway.

But in the past 48 hours, Lam said, the Communists had shelled or launched ground attacks against 45 cities or military camps in the northern provinces, most of them around Da Nang or to the south.

Attack Marine Camp

The Communists sent a 15-round mortar barrage into a U. S. Marine supply camp north of Da Nang today and attacked South Korean soldiers guarding a village on its southern doorstep.

Battlefield reports said the South Koreans drove off the Reds in hand-to-hand combat, killing 18. Seven Koreans died and two were wounded in the fighting east of Dien Ban, 16 miles south of Da Nang.

Dien Ban was the focal point of two battles Sunday in which Lam's South Vietnamese forces reported killing 253 Communists. They took "light" losses in one battle and suffered eight killed and 32 wounded in the second.

The battling followed a Viet Cong threat to turn Da Nang itself into a battlefield. Before dawn Sunday, Communists attacked a police station and bombed a bridge, a police outpost and a Buddhist school inside the city. Four South Vietnamese policemen were killed and four were wounded.

Exempt Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Kingston Exempt Firemen's Association, Inc. will be held Nov. 21 at 8 p.m. at the 25 East O'Reilly Street Municipal Building.

All members are urged to be present.

Shooting Jails Two

By LYNN MULVANEY

The shooting of a bullet into an occupied car, following a barroom argument in Phoenix early this morning, landed two brothers in Ulster County Jail charged with felonies.

The Jones brothers, Robert, 26 of Stonyburg and Frank, 36 of Allaben are both charged with reckless endangerment in the first degree.

According to the Ulster County Sheriff's Department, which was occupied most of the night with the investigation, the Jones brothers became embroiled in a tavern argument with Richard DiTeri of West Islip, L. I., and two other complainants.

When the trio left in a car about 1 a. m., the Jones brothers followed them in another vehicle. When the first car stalled off Rt. 28 at Woodland Valley Bridge, the Jones car approached and one of the men shot a bullet into the rear of the car, hitting first a tire, then the fender and then lodging itself inside the car.

All three of the car's occupants escaped injury but lodged complaints against their pursuers.

Arraigned before Judge Edwin France of Pine Hill, the Jones brothers, who did not enter a plea, had their bail set at $1,000 each. Both were taken to Ulster County Jail and their cases were adjourned until Nov. 26.

Sheriff Deputies James Freese and Roger Lapp who investigated have not ascertained which one of the men fired the bullet.

NEW YORK (AP) Union pickets appeared outside the partially evacuated Creedmoor State Mental Hospital in Queens Village today, marking the start of the first in a threatened series of strikes that could cripple the state's 24 mental hospitals and 12 schools for the mentally retarded.

A half dozen pickets had arrived at 4:30 a. m., and more were expected later. The strike by nonprofessional employees is over a representational dispute. Creedmoor reported that 20 per cent of the workers were absent on the midnight to 8 a. m. shift. In anticipation of the walkout, about half the hospital's 6,300 patients either had been sent home or transferred to other institutions, the hospital said.

An anti-strike restraining order was to be argued today in Queens Supreme Court.

In Albany, state and union officials had scheduled another round of meetings. Eleventh-hour efforts Sunday failed to avert the walkout.

The union, Council 50 of the AFL-CIO American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, called the strike to back demands for an election to determine the bargaining agent for nonprofessional personnel at institutions operated by the State Mental Hygiene Department.

It wants the state to stop talks with the Civil Service Employees Association, an organization which Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has designated as temporary bargaining agent for the workers.

Council 50 has scheduled similar strikes for Manhattan and Bronx State Mental Hospitals Wednesday, and another at Rockland State Hospital, in Orangeburg, on Thursday.

PRAGUE (AP) — Thousands of Czechoslovak students continued sit-in strikes at their schools today as Communist party chief Alexander Dubcek's leading role in the occupied country approached the vice-pr. and BUDAPEST (UPI)—Western Communist parties who will need years to recover political losses suffered when the Russians invaded Czechoslovakia are demanding greater influence over Moscow's foreign policy.

The issue is being fought out here this week in a session of the 58-nation preparatory conference established to lay the groundwork for an eventual summit gathering of all the world's Communist party leaders.

Sources close to the conference say the nonruling parties are complaining that Moscow ignored their interests when it invaded Czechoslovakia, and that it could possibly have chosen some other method of dealing with the problem.

The Russians' reply that overriding consideration had to be given to the possibility that the Communist party was losing control in Czechoslovakia, and that counterrevolutionary elements were on the verge of removing that country from the "Socialist camp."

Early Release of Airmen By North Viet Unlikely

PARIS (AP) — Despite the bombing halt and expectations that the Vietnam peace talks will resume soon, prospects do not appear bright for speedy release of American airmen held prisoner in North Vietnam.

Hundreds of U.S. flyers—a rough estimate used here is 400—were captured when their planes were shot down during the three years and nine months of U.S. air attacks ended by President Johnson's order Oct. 31.

Meager Results

A persistent effort by Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and his team of negotiators produced meager results on the prisoner of war issue during the past six months of U.S.-North Vietnamese talks.

Harriman plans to press ahead on this matter whenever he sees an opening. But many obstacles seem to spell delay.

For one thing, the Paris conference is indefinitely suspended because the South Vietnamese government refuses to attend. This has suspended most U.S.-North Vietnamese contacts for the time being while U.S. diplomats focus on patching up the split between Saigon and Washington.

If and when an expanded conference gets underway and begins to tackle the basic issues of a peace settlement, the matter of prisoners may well be among the last items threshed out. During the two years of negotiations to end the Korean War, prisoner exchanges were not settled until the end.

Another Problem

Still another problem is Ha-noi's continuing disinterest in talking about prisoner swaps, acknowledging that the North has sent soldiers into the South. But North Vietnamese negotiators have yet to talk publicly about Northern prisoners in the South.

Disgruntled Bodes Tough Italian Week

ROME (AP) — Italy today began a hard week politically during which government employees are striking for 24 hours, students will be taking to the streets again and the government is expected to resign.

The nationwide strike by government employees was scheduled to begin tonight when railwaymen leave their trains in a bid for higher wages.

They will be joined at midnight by postal, telephone and electrical workers. On Tuesday government employees will not show up at courts, offices, schools and ministries.

The strike order from both Catholic and Communist labor unions went out to about 2 million persons and will paralyze part of the nation. Last week more than 10 million employees of private firms struck for 24 hours.

Student groups disgruntled over the lack of reform in the university system have announced more demonstrations with workers later this week.

The students have been occupying four of the country's universities for the past week, clashed with police during the general strike last week and fought with riot squads in Florence during a demonstration Saturday demanding the release of persons jailed during the strike.

The University of Rome announced it has cut the telephone lines from the occupied law building because the students were making numerous international calls. The announcement said one call was to Cuba.

The strikes and student unrest are indirectly related to the looming government change.

For five months, the minority Christian Democratic government of Premier Giovanni Leone has been limping along waiting for the Socialists to return to their coalition. The Socialists are now ready, and Leone was reported preparing to resign on Tuesday.

South Vietnam Schools

Americans have read so much about the ravages of war in South Vietnam, and have heard so many promises about wrapping up the job and bringing the boys home in 1965, 1966, 1967, 19... that they are apt to greet any optimistic claim regarding the progress of the country with a generous addition of salt.

However, in the field of education, at least, dramatic gains have been made despite the war, according to statistics reported at a recent meeting of Vietnamese and American educators at Ohio University. The university has been providing educational assistance in South Vietnam since 1962.

Dr. D. P. Jones, acting chief of the Educational Division for Vietnam of the U.S. Agency for International Development, summarized the situation:

Whereas only 450,000 elementary youngsters were in school in 1956, there are two million today. (South Vietnam has a population of 16.5 million.)

Since 1963, when substantial government support of education got under way, over 10,000 classrooms have been built.

In the same five years, 12,000 new teachers have been given sufficient training to enable them to teach in elementary schools. Most of them have gone into hamlets that previously had no public educational facilities.

Along with the crash teacher training program, five normal colleges have been developed since 1963 to give two years of teacher training beyond high school. These colleges graduated 1,200 teachers this year, will graduate 1,500 in 1969 and 2,000 in 1970.

A Vietnamese publishing effort has produced 14 million paperback textbooks, written for Vietnamese children in Vietnamese. Before this, no textbooks were available.

At the present rate of providing schools and teachers, 85 per cent of South Vietnam's children will be in elementary school by 1970. In 1963, only 17 per cent attended school.

Countries that have 80 per cent of their children in school are "viable and prosperous," says Jones, who interprets the rising educational level of the South Vietnamese as constituting a tremendous development potential.

Considering the kind of war that has been and is being fought in South Vietnam, such progress in strengthening the country's basic educational structure is little short of phenomenal. Tuck it in the "good news" section of the Vietnam file, where it will not be exactly crowded.

500,000 Hard-Core Jobs

The first half year results of the drive by private business to provide jobs and training for the hard-core unemployed was a huge success. Private businesses in 50 cities had placed 84,000, most of them Negroes, in well paying jobs. As of Sept. 30, a total of 61,273 had remained on the job. The rest quit or were dismissed.

The National Alliance of Businessmen, which made the report, was now confident of meeting its goal of 100,000 jobs by next June 30 and the longer-range goal of 500,000 jobs by mid-1971.

One of the encouraging factors, is that 12,000 private employers in the 50 key cities provided the 84,000 jobs, an average of 7 per place of employment. That gave the alliance the statistics on which to plan the rest of the campaign. They can either increase employers, say to 25,000 who would each provide 20 jobs to complete the placement of 500,000 workers, or the same 12,000 employers can raise their quotas to 41 or 42 and still make the objective.

Since this campaign would employ all the hard core unemployed, the effect on the economy would be enormous. Not only would many be moved from the relief rolls to wage producers, but they would change from public assistance to taxpayers. A splendid idea splendidly executed.

Two beachside lots at Key Biscayne, Fla., purchased by Richard M. Nixon last year, may become the site of the little White House of his administration. Until now Nixon has gone there in a rented villa or as the guest of Senator George A. Smathers or C. G. Rebozo, a long-time friend, his host on his post-election vacation. But as President he will need the privacy of his own home unless he should follow Harry S. Truman's example and go farther south to the Naval base at Key West.

It has cost Los Angeles County $285,949 so far to jail and prosecute Sirhan B. Sirhan, the 24-year-old charged with assassinating Senator Robert F. Kennedy. Much of it was for alterations to protect Sirhan and for over-time pay for sheriff's deputies guarding him to bring him to trial.

Kennedy family aides are talking of establishing an organization to sponsor the kinds of social service projects promoted by the late Senator Robert F. Kennedy with a potential for political action. It sounds like a new fringe group of the Democratic party.

Henry J. Taylor Says U.S. Again Will Pledge S. Vietnam Independence

WASHINGTON — The differences of opinion that have unfortunately arisen between the South Vietnam government and the United States government have precipitated a dangerous situation. The problem is not merely who shall sit at the negotiating table in Paris. The real issue is whether, if the United States eventually agrees to withdraw its forces, South Vietnam, as an independent government which now has in the field more than 1,000,000 troops, will be able by itself to ward off the attempted conquest initiated by the Communist regime in Hanoi.

For a long time the argument was centered on the idea of a bombing halt. The assumption was that this alone would bring about meaningful negotiations. But the evidence now is that, while the bombing of North Vietnam has been stopped, the Communists have not abated their attacks on South Vietnam. Violations of the agreement previously reached are openly condemned by American officials. The North Vietnamese, however, apparently feel that the friction which has arisen between the Saigon government and the United States indicates that the latter is about ready to forsake its ally.

The truth is the American government has been trying to get negotiations going. It has hoped that technicalities about how the different factions should be seated at the negotiating table would not be allowed to prevent productive talks that could lead to peace. But there are signs now that the North Vietnamese are taking advantage of the debate being waged between the president of South Vietnam and the American government, and are rejoicing over the nature of the dispute while at the same time biding their time and making no effort to stop the fighting or to begin peace talks of a substantive nature.

The South Vietnam government, through its embassy here, has stated flatly that it never agreed to a four-sided peace conference. Indications are that the president of South Vietnam is anxious to satisfy public opinion in his own country, and it has become a matter of pride with the South Vietnamese people. They don't want their representatives to sit down with envoys of the Viet Cong — the Communist faction spread throughout South Vietnam but supported by an operating under the authority of the Hanoi government.

Spokesmen for the American government have naturally expressed regret that South Vietnam has not joined in the peace talks. But it is becoming more and more apparent that the Saigon government is disappointed with the position taken by the United States in recent days. Some dramatic assurance needs to be given that Washington and Saigon are standing together as allies and that the people of the South will not in any way be betrayed by agreements reached at the peace conference.

It is not easy for Americans sometimes to understand the sensitivity of foreign peoples. It looks as if some of the statements recently made in America criticizing Saigon's attitude in refusing to attend the peace negotiations with the Viet Cong as an equal have produced a feeling of dismay and protest in South Vietnam.

Meanwhile, the negotiations themselves are dragging on without any useful talks. Officials here may have thought South Vietnam would be compelled to join in the Paris conference because of a fear that American military assistance might be withdrawn. But while the aid of the United States is deeply appreciated in South Vietnam, the people there resent anything which could possibly lead to a takeover of their country by North Vietnam through an ambiguous set of declarations called a "peace agreement."

In such a contingency, the American government would have accomplished little by its military operations in Vietnam, and thousands of Americans would have sacrificed their lives for a cause which was proclaimed as a great ideal — namely, self-determination — but which might turn out to be a lost cause.

The chances are that, after a few days more of bickering in Paris and through diplomatic channels, the United States will be proclaiming again in unequivocal terms its pledge to assure the independence of South Vietnam and the right of its people to determine their own form of government.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Richard Milhous Nixon now walks the lonely road. It is like being lost above the timber line in winter. The winds shriek, the stars stare in icy blue. A shout for help has no echo. All decisions are momentous. All counsel is agreeable. The richest country in the most progressive century is in his hands.

Once elected, he is the President of all the people. And yet, more people voted against him than for him. The loyal opposition in the Congress is stronger than his own party. He seeks unity where there is division; purpose where there is anarchy; idealism where there is greed; idealism and aspirations where detractors set traps.

He was not my man. I'm a Democrat. But he is entitled to my respect and, if I have any to offer, my assistance. I never knew a man who, from the moment he assumed the august office of President of the United States, wasn't a bigger and better man at once, almost as though the hand of Providence had, for a time, taken the pettiness from his heart. He thinks bigger; he is bigger.

Few men aspired to the Presidency with such stubborn design as this one. For eight years, he could taste it but, when he lost a narrow one to Kennedy, and the governorship of California to Pat Brown, almost everyone lost faith in Richard Nixon except Dwight D. Eisenhower, Pat Nixon, Bebe Rebozo, Herb Klein and some Republican state chairmen who owed him a nod.

Nixon said too many right things. He sounded like a high school debater. His opinions were flawless. Like other candidates, he had a public relations paranoia. He could shake hands heartily, turn on the blue-jowled grin, but his eyes kept saying: "You're out to get me."

On a wintry afternoon in January, he will return from the inaugural parade and walk into that big oval office. The gleaming black shoes will sink into a thick pile of rug of pale green on which is embossed the seal of the President. The French windows with their gossamer curtains will silhouette the rose garden and the south grounds. All of it — the fireplace, the two couches, the dark rosewood desk, the standing banners, will be familiar to Richard Nixon.

He has seen them many times, but he has never been in there alone. That is the difference. His scramble telephone will put him direct touch with De Gaulle, Kiesinger, and Kosygin. Secret Service men will stand outside his door day and night; a mysterious man with a small suitcase will follow him everywhere he goes, in case the President decides to dial a nuclear attack on another nation.

Alone, he will select a Secretary of State, a Secretary of Defense, an Attorney General — an array of intellect, honor and efficiency which will, in great or small degree, betray him from time to time. The heads of 154 government administrations and bureaus will report directly to the President and he will be responsible for their work.

Outside this country, small nations will get into trouble and beg him to bail them out. In the office, men of pompous mind will ask favors. The mind of the President will be yanked in many directions, simultaneously. Personal friends in California, New York, Florida and Washington will lean on his time, as proof of his continuing devotion.

He will, if he is as I think, surround himself with the best intelligence. He will learn, as we must, that the glib campaign promises to end the war in Vietnam, pacify the Black Revolution, and produce by a magical snap of the fingers the law and order everyone craves, are forlorn hopes which will be realized only by unremitting work and patience.

The job robs a man of about eight years of life. The responsibility is too broad, the call for judgment too exacting for anyone. In addition to intelligence, patriotism and honor, the President must have forbearance. The people can give him no less than he gives us.

I hope that the Democratic Congress will spend more time trying to help the new President than in opposing his will for the sake of opposition. At this time of crisis — it is Nixon or nothing. In making the next President look good, the 91st Congress can make itself look noble.

In the past year, all of us found out that a President of the United States is mortal, that we can crush him at will. We proved the point. Let's not try it again.

Drew Pearson Says Proposes New Cooperation For Streamlined Transportation

WASHINGTON — A railroad man who has revolutionized one of the nation's major railroads, the New York Central, now proposes a revolutionary concept for the regulation of transportation. Alfred E. Perlman, president of the new Penn Central Transportation Company, points out that different forms of transportation — river barges, railroads and trucks — cannot be rigidly departmentalized, but must be combined together for the best interests of the public.

The United States is the only nation on earth which prevents railroads from operating bus lines, aviation companies, trucks, and water barge companies. If these services are integrated, the public benefits; and Perlman urges a national transportation policy to carry this out.

The president of the combined New York Central and Pennsylvania Railroads is making his proposal today (Nov. 18) at Syracuse University, where he is receiving an award for outstanding achievement in the field of transportation.

While Perlman doesn't mention it, the Justice Department has been following a policy of OKing "conglomerate mergers," which means that Schenley, a whiskey distiller, can merge with Stanley-Warner Theatres, since they do not compete; or that Westinghouse can merge with Warner Brothers-Seven Arts because they don't compete.

The Perlman theory is just the opposite. He advocates mergers between companies engaged in the same field — such as railroads, which could carry freight by barge on long water hauls, then transfer to rail or trucks for short inland hauls. Or an airline could merge with a railroad and coordinate long distance trips by air with short trips, as between Washington, Philadelphia and New York, by fast streamlined train.

"The Interstate Commerce Commission is as out of date as the Nineteenth Century in its approach to regulation," says the man who eliminated the onetime luxury train, the Twentieth Century Limited. "If the regulatory gap continues the free enterprise system in transportation is doomed." Perlman would strictly enforce the Sherman Antitrust Act, however, to protect the public.

Railroad Pioneer
Perlman's record is such that his ideas will carry a lot of weight in the transportation world, including the Department of Transportation in Washington.

When Robert R. Young won control of the New York Central in 1954 after a dramatic proxy fight, he discovered that the legal staff on the ousted management had prepared a petition in bankruptcy. The Central's finances were that precarious.

Young said to his new president, "Al, aren't you sacred?" Perlman's answer was an immediate program of improvement. He closed down some yards, enlarged others, threw out obsolete equipment, even changed the tracks to accommodate the fast, modern freight trains he had been using while president of the Denver & Rio Grande Western. He turned the Central from a passenger-oriented trunk line into a fast freight line.

The Central had not yet recovered when, in January 1958, Young committed suicide. The stock which Young had urged his friends to buy at 50 with the promise that it would reach 100, was as low as 15 on the day he died. The Central was called a "railroad graveyard."

But Perlman made Young's dream come true. In less than 10 years, he was able to report to the stockholders that "1966 was the most profitable year in the history of the New York Central System." In 1967 the stock had reached a high of 86½. Perlman's rescue is one of the great sagas of American industry.

British Diplomatic Critic
The British government definitely intends to go through with the appointment of John Freeman as the new ambassador to Washington, despite his criticism of President-elect Nixon.

As editor of the New Statesman from 1961 to 1965,

Freeman repeatedly attacked Nixon as "a man of no principle" who "dirtied his hands in Joe McCarthy's cesspool" and whose defeat for the California governorship in 1962 was "a victory for decency in public life."

Both Nixon and Freeman have come a long way since those attacks. For the past three years, Freeman has served as the British high commissioner to India. The British have also kept up good relations with Nixon and have given him the red-carpet treatment on his visits to England.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson now believes, according to British sources, that the "new Nixon" will accept the "new Freeman" as British ambassador to the United States.

Saving Inaugural Money
President-elect Nixon is going over the federal budget with a finetooth comb, searching for ways to economize. Here's a way he can save money from his very first day in office:

The inauguration ceremonies on Capitol Plaza cost the taxpayers over $500,000, counting the construction of such temporary facilities as platforms for television cameras and seats for newsmen and invited guests.

January 20 usually is cold, often with snow. Many people get colds or even pneumonia just to see the President sworn in. The new President must endanger his own health, along with cabinet officials and members of Congress.

No one has ever come up with a logical defense of the expensive, nonsensical outdoor ceremony, except to say that it is traditional, the way things are done in Washington. However, here's an alternative that would keep everybody healthier:

Why not hold the inauguration proceedings indoors in the huge Washington Armory, not far from the Capitol?

The taxpayers would be spared the expense of building the outdoor facilities on Capitol Plaza and, equally important, everyone would be warm.

Hard Fact vs. Fancy

Dispelling Election Myths

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Every election quickly gives birth to myths and misconceptions — some accidental and some contrived — and they are already appearing in the wake of the 1968 results.

From some sources in Richard Nixon's camp has come the very simple thesis that President Johnson's Vietnam bombing halt announcement of Oct. 31, just five days before the election, drew up tight what otherwise would have been a substantial victory for Nixon over Vice President Humphrey.

On the basis of still incomplete voting breakdowns, the thesis seems to apply plausibly only to California. Even fairly late state polls showed Humphrey far behind. The Vietnam issue cuts big in the state and the halt could have helped to draw the vote to its 48.45 per cent edge for Nixon.

The issue also cuts heavily in New York, but Nixon managers privately were conceding that state to Humphrey even before the halt and the vice president's 50-44 margin hardly suggests the move was decisive.

In the other major states, the available evidence indicates that Humphrey was on a strong comeback surge long before the bombing halt, and that what was happening was simply a reassertion of previously proven Democratic party strength in the great core cities.

For instance, Humphrey piled up a vote advantage in Philadelphia which was nearly 100,000 greater than Nixon's best appraisers had expected. (A telephone check late Saturday, Nov. 2, two days after the bombing halt decision, disclosed Nixon men still were counting on a limited Humphrey edge in Philadelphia.)

Postelection checks reveal that much of the added margin, not foreseen by the Nixon camp, came from a huge black voter turnout spurred by COPE, labor's political arm. Though black voting in the North was somewhat erratic, evidence is that it tended to be much heavier in many cities than the GOP anticipated.

No one at this point is daring to argue that the core city vote which came out in big numbers for Humphrey was moved to this course by the bombing halt.

What worked for Humphrey were the old coalition elements tied to his party for years on the economic issue. After all, with the exception of one controversial Gallup sampling late last July, the vice president was shown ahead of Nixon in polls during pre-convention summer weeks when there was no sign of a bombing halt. He later lost ground on "law and order," not the war.

His steady recovery from his post-Labor Day low point brought him at last to a level where six of the country's 10 most populous states were decided within a three-point percentage range — and Humphrey won two of them. The three big ones he took by larger margins — Massachusetts (30 points), Michigan (8) and New York (6) — were clearly not settled by the events of the final five days.

Another bit of fancy taking hold is the idea that by employing a so-called "southern strategy," naming Maryland Gov. Spiro Agnew as his running mate and "consorting" with Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, Nixon "destroyed" Humphrey's Democratic base in the Old South.

The fact is that base has been partially eroded for 16 years. Three of the five southern states Nixon won this time — Virginia, Tennessee and Florida — were won by Dwight Eisenhower in both 1952 and 1956 and by Nixon in 1960. Only in the Johnson sweep of 1964 were they briefly retaken. At the level of presidential voting, these three clearly can no longer be deemed part of the Democrats' southern base.

Eisenhower also twice took Texas, Nixon lost it to John F. Kennedy by 46,000 in 1960, with Johnson thrown into the balance to save his own state. This time Nixon lost it by 37,000, almost surely because George Wallace ran up 570,000 votes.

Only North Carolina and South Carolina were new GOP pickups in 1968, but Nixon got 48 per cent of the North Carolina vote and 48.8 per cent of South Carolina's vote in 1960 — when Agnew was just a Baltimore fellow and Thurmond was a Democrat. Ike, incidentally, got 49.3 per cent in North Carolina in 1956.

Obviously, Nixon's five 1968 southern states can be shown to be good and developing Republican territory. Even a GOP governor candidate got 48.3 per cent in North Carolina this year.

Agnew, and to a limited extent Thurmond, were weapons against Wallace in southern states with a normal or rising expectancy of GOP victory. It was Wallace, not Nixon plus Agnew and Thurmond, who "destroyed" what is left of the Democrats' southern base by seizing Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia.

Nixon Is Likely to Step Up Political Help to Saigon

By RAY CROMLEY

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It is understood a number of Nixon men would like to keep a part of their campaign team intact, send it to Saigon to help the South Vietnamese develop an Asian equivalent of door-to-door canvassing, precinct organization and political strategy.

These Nixon men believe that only through becoming skilled in these basic "grass roots" tactics can the South Vietnamese come to stand on their own feet politically, build a truly representative government and be able to compete with the heavily organized Viet Cong in postwar elections.

This project, if carried out, would be based on the computerlike tactics used by Nixon strategists in winning the 1968 presidential campaign.

Cities, districts and wards would be analyzed. Then organizing aid would be focused on the critical areas necessary for victory in any future elections in which the Communists might take part.

That is, the major effort would go into the high-pay-off areas.

Back of this possible Nixon-team strategy are somber reports on conditions in South Vietnam.

Income data from Saigon and the provinces indicates that South Vietnamese-American forces are in good shape militarily.

But politically the situation is dangerous.

Satellite is paper thin. The political parties are small and fragmented. Not one has a grass roots base. Political organization is almost nonexistent in most city wards and country villages alike.

So much emphasis has been put on military victory that creation of the political base necessary to insure sound government in South Vietnam has been neglected.

Billions have been spent on military actions and economic aid; technical help for creating the political knowhow which is the strength of a democracy has been largely ignored. The South Vietnamese have repeatedly asked for technical political help.

By contrast, Hanoi has sent south some of its most skilled "precinct organizers."

Ho Chi Minh has spent the last eight months vigorously upgrading his underground organization in South Vietnam's villages and rebuilding his organization in the major cities. Concurrently, his men have been actively repairing, enlarging and rejuvenating local "front" groups in areas where they existed, and actively building new groups in areas under nominal government rule.

Hanoi has been working to strengthen its control over youth, women, farm, student, teacher, trade and fishing co-operative groups it has organized or infiltrated over the years.

Despite the small minority of Communists in South Vietnam, this efficient Hanoi organization might hit sur-some informed circles.

This worry is back of the push in the Nixon camp for a crash program of the type outlined above.

Era of Freedom at End

By THOMAS B. ROSS

PRAGUE — Communist

party leader Alexander Dubcek, the architect of Czechoslovakia's short experiment in freedom, has virtually capitulated to the Russians. Dubcek declared his intention to enforce the "leading role of the party" — Communist jargon for absolute rule — and to "put on a firmer foundation the alliance with the Soviet Union."

In a rambling speech of several hours, Dubcek told the party's Central Committee it must "struggle against the infiltration of liberalistic and non-Marxist views."

Dubcek thus made it clear that official resistance to the Soviet invasion has ended and that the government will follow the Moscow line.

His speech, made at a closed session and released by the Czech News Agency, CTK, shocked the people who had come to view Dubcek as the champion of a new era of freedom.

It is certain to cause consternation among the students who have held two violent anti-Soviet demonstrations in the last two weeks.

Their discontent may be reflected in another demonstration Sunday, a national holiday commemorating the closing of the Czech universities by the Nazis in 1939.

Dubcek indirectly attacked the students and their liberal elders for creating an "anti-Soviet psychosis."

Clearly anticipating the response to his speech, they contended that the greatest obstacles to returning to normal life were "attitudes which directly accuse the political leadership of capitulation and betrayal."

Dubcek was expected to come under pressure at the Central Committee meeting from the Conservative wing of the party, a minority wing, to abandon his liberal policy.

But his virtually total surrender on the first day of the three-day session astounded even the pessimists.

Despite a few formal bows to the liberalization program before the Soviets and their allies invaded Czechoslovakia in August, the speech read as if it had been written in Moscow.

In contrast to his previous emphasis on the right of each country to choose its own political road, he opposed "narrowly national standpoints."

He also recanted on his decision to eliminate censorship last spring, contending that the press had indulged in what he called incorrect non-socialist views.

He rejected the thesis of pure democracy and, in effect, made a public confession of guilt for the freer way of life that flourished after he came to power last January.

Doubt Surtax Extension To Adversely Hit Spending

By LEONARD WIENER

(Chicago Daily News Service)

ANN ARBOR, MICH. — Extension of the income tax surcharge beyond its expiration date next summer will not adversely affect consumer spending, economists at the University of Michigan were told.

"Most consumers either do not know that Congress made the tax increase a temporary measure, or believe that the surtax will be extended," said Prof. George Katona, an economist and psychologist at the university.

Katona recalled that when the tax went into effect last summer it did not have a dampening effect hoped for because it came at a time when large wage increases were frequent and when expectations of further wage increases were strong.

There was some slowing of consumer demand in anticipation of the boost, he noted, but it was quickly overcome after the tax became a reality since the additional payments were only small extra deductions from weekly paychecks.

N. W. consumers have become accustomed to the tax and still are optimistic over future salary boosts, the economist said. Abandonment of the surtax, however, will have an expansion effect on spending, Katona said.

Katona is Director of the Economic Behavior program at the university's Institute for Social Research. He spoke at the annual University of Michigan conference on the economic outlook.

He forecast that higher incomes will keep consumer spending in 1969 firm despite rising prices and the surtax. Spending for services and essentials will keep up with gains in income, he said. Because of this, the amount of money saved will remain fairly high, he noted.

Surveys taken by the Institute for Social Research show that consumer sentiment, or willingness to buy, after recovering in 1967 from a depressed 1966 has remained unchanged at a level below that of record 1965.

The depressants in 1966 were accelerated inflation, rising interest rates, proposals for higher taxes and uncertainty about the Vietnam War. These same factors were present in 1967 but it was no longer "new" bad news and thus willingness to buy improved as incomes rose.

Vietnam, which was considered bullish in 1965, has since become a bearish factor as views on the nature of the war changed, Katona said.

If there is progress toward peace "Consumers will become more confident and nonessential expenditures even though some consumers and some areas of the country may be hurt," he said.

In it he states he feels something must be done to curb "irresponsible decisions coming down from the Supreme Court of the United States, decisions which are chided by the local chapter of the DAR, to Brownie Troop 53 at their meeting at the Mt. Marion School, and to prosecute those who have declared war on society."

The other article was entitled "Right to Keep and Bear Arms" by Lt. General Julian C. Smith, U.S. Marine Corps, retired. It stressed that "it is the illegal use, not the ownership, of the derived citizens and the subject of legislative control."

The next meeting of the Saugerties Chapter DAR will be held at the home of Mrs. Daniel Lamoureux, Saxton, Wednesday, Dec. 4, at 2 p.m. Hostesses will be Mrs. William Cotton, Mrs. Gaylord and Mrs. Augustus Modjeska. Students Fined On Larceny Pleas

NEW PALTZ—A 19-year-old New Palitz State University College coed and a Dutchess County Community College male companion were arrested in New Palitz yesterday on petty larceny charges.

The two, Linda Perkins and Alan Feuer, both of New York City, pleaded guilty before New Palitz Town Justice Rexford Schneider and were fined $75 apiece.

They were remanded to the Ulster County Jail until the fine is paid, Justice Schneider said.

The two will be in the jail for a period not to exceed 10 days.

Miss Perkins and Feuer were attempting the petty larceny at the supermarket at 4:27 p.m. and were spotted by an employee of the store.

They were held by the manager until the village police arrived.

U.N. Security Chief Has Challenging Job

By TOM HOGGE
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — When he became U.N. security chief, Lt. Col. Harold A. Trimble thought the job would be a challenge. Five months of dealing with demonstrators, VIP's and a threatened guard strike have convinced him he was right.

"Something different is going on all the time," said the tall, trim Canadian with the bearing of a military career man. "It certainly keeps you on your toes."

Trimble is not only responsible for protecting delegates, visiting dignitaries and everyone else who streams through the 18-acre U.N. complex each day. His 180-man guard force must keep hecklers out of the debating halls and prying individuals from haunting the delegates' lounge or infiltrating 55 floors of offices where the 2,000-member secretariat staff works.

The guards try to intercept troublemakers before they reach the admissions desk, but it is impossible to spot them all. And when a delegation secures a block of seats for visitors to the General Assembly or Security Council, there is no way of checking on them. At least one Communist mission here has been suspected of slipping in organized rioters this way.

When a demonstration does erupt, the security men in the area eject the agitators as quickly and quietly as possible. Nine such demonstrators rose up in the public gallery and denounced the U.S. role in Vietnam when Secretary of State Dean Rusk addressed the assembly in the recent policy debate. Nine others singled out Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko's appearance on the assembly stage to break out banners calling for a free Biafra. Both groups were hurried out of the hall as soon as they were detected.

"In each case," said Trimble, "the demonstrators came in separately and, to me at least, each looked like a normal person. It is virtually impossible to avert such outbursts. You just get rid of them as fast as you can."

No Lack of Communications With County, States Petro

City Treasurer Stanley Petro Jr. commented today that "there is no lack of communications" between the city and the county on the matter of a county-wide tax that would add to the city coffers.

The issue was sidetracked during the County Legislature session Thursday evening, where it had been expected to be introduced in resolution form.

In what was called "a lack of communication," Chairman Peter J. Savago told reporters at the meeting that the tax proposal would not be presented that evening due to a disagreement between the city and county on how the receipts would be divided.

Petro today said a meeting is planned for Thursday morning in Albany for city and county officials. There "always has been rapport in previous matters" and Petro expressed assurance that there will be this time.

Should a county-wide sales tax be adopted, the city hopes to receive at least one-third of the tax monies.

"We are always ready to negotiate," Petro said, adding that there are many factors to be considered.

Methodist Group To Meet Nov. 21

The November meeting of the United Methodist Church Women's Society of Christian Service will be held at the home of Mrs. Frank Thompson, Sr. on Nov. 21 at 2 p.m.

Devotions and program will be led by Mrs. Fred Deming.

'Grudge Killing'

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The body of a 66-year-old man was found in his automobile on a downtown street early Sunday and police said he had been stabbed at least 16 times in an apparent "grudge killing."

Police Detective James J. Cavoti said James G. Lee, of Rochester, was apparently stabbed at the downtown location. He said the victim was stabbed 12 times in the chest and abdomen and that five of those wounds were directly in the heart.

Joseph Yerry Dies, Owned Painting Firm

Joseph Yerry, a former resident of Kingston, died at Memorial Hospital, Hollywood, Fla., Sunday.

A native of Kingston and a son of the late Joseph and Irena Hoyt Yerry, Mr. Yerry had made his home at 37 Wilbur Boulevard, Poughkeepsie, and 3350 North West 67th Avenue, Hollywood, Fla. in recent years.

He was owner and operator of Joseph Yerry Company of Kingston and Poughkeepsie, well known painting contractor throughout the east. He was a sub-contracting company for International Business Machines Corp.

Surviving are his wife the former Lorraine Johnson; a daughter, Mrs. Mendel (Irena) Smith of Kingston; a son Harold Yerry of Hurley. Four grandchildren also survive.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by the Jensen and Deegan Funeral Home Inc., 15 Downs Street.

Back to School Night Tuesday

William M. Turcotte, director of Public Relations for the Kingston City Schools, Consolidated, announced today that the Back to School Night for the three junior high schools, Myron J. Michael, J. Watson Bailey and the M. Clifford Miller will be held Tuesday, 7:30 p.m.

Originally scheduled for last Tuesday, but cancelled due to the snow storm, the program, held annually during American Education Week, features parents carrying out the daily schedule of their children. Thus parents experience, in a brief way, the daily class routine of their children.

Personnel from supplemental services will be available to talk with parents.

West Hurley Speaker

George Fernandez, assistant superintendent of the Board of Cooperative Educational Services (BOCES), will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the West Hurley School P-TA, Tuesday night at 8 p.m. in the school. Fernandez will speak on services provided by BOCES.

Supreme Court Will Examine Powell's Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court agreed today to examine the complaint of Adam Clayton Powell that the House improperly deprived him of his seat in the 90th Congress.

The case could provoke another clash between the legislative and judicial branches of government, already at odds over the Senate's refusal to confirm President Johnson's appointment of Justice Abe Fortas as chief justice.

The U.S. Court of Appeals here ruled against Powell on Feb. 28, 1968. The high court will hear arguments later this term and decide the case by written opinion.

The Harlem Democrat won election to the 91st Congress over Henry L. Hall in New York's 18th Congressional District on Nov. 5.

Powell's attorney, William M. Kunstler of New York, said that while the matter of seating is no longer a live issue—since the 90th Congress has passed into history—Powell's salary and other monetary benefits are still important issues in the case.

Renamed to Board

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller has reappointed Dr. Emanuel R. Piore to the board of directors of the State Science and Technology Foundation.

The term for the unsalaried post ends July 30, 1974. Piore is vice president and chief scientist of the International Business Machines Corp. The foundation seeks to foster and improve scientific and technical education and research.

McKeldin to Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has named Theodore R. McKeldin, a former governor of Maryland and mayor of Baltimore, to serve as a member of the Indian Claims Commission.

McKeldin, 67, succeeded Commissioner T. Harold Scott, under the recess appointment announced Thursday.

Warns Public Against Tactics Of Salesmen

NEW YORK (UPI) — State Atty. Gen. Louis Lefkowitz Sunday warned the public against high-pressure tactics by salesmen seeking to make expensive repairs on home heating systems.

Lefkowitz said the salesmen frequently get into private homes on false pretenses and then declare the existing heating system dangerous and perhaps irreparable, calling for installation of new equipment.

He said that home owners frightened into taking immediate action sometimes find themselves saddled with five-year installment contracts, at rates as much as 75 per cent above normal costs.

Lefkowitz also warned against "repairmen" who dismantle heating systems in order to check them and then refuse to put them back together until a sale has been made.

Student Killed

CAZENOVIA, N. Y. (AP) — Kathleen Reilly, 18, a student at Cazenovia College, was killed Sunday night when the automobile in which she was riding collided with another car on Route 20 near this community southeast of Syracuse.

$2 Million School Now Open, For Deaf, Hard-of-Hearing

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Teen-ages girls learn to dance to the beat of an inner drum in physical education courses at Marlon Avenue School here.

In seventh grade science classes, students wearing ear-phones strain to catch the words of their teacher, their eyes fixed on his lips as he faces them, speaking into a microphone and writing on an overhead projector which beams the lesson onto a chalkboard.

In the first floor pre-school rooms, parents sit behind two-way mirrors and watch as their youngsters struggle to communicate, so they will be able to duplicate the teachers' methods at home.

The $2 million school, built like an upside-down wedding cake with ramps between the tiers, opened its doors this fall. It has the nation's most modern facilities for the education of the deaf and hard-of-hearing.

"The school is unique by virtue of the fact that we take children from the age of three on up to 15 in the same structure," explained Mrs. Rhoda Freeman, coordinating principal of the elementary and junior high schools.

"But more important, this is a building designed especially for the deaf. For the first time, they aren't second class citizens. Heretofore, the hard-of-hearing were relegated to whatever was left over. They were quartered in extra rooms in various schools, which were generous to take them, and included in school activities only as an afterthought.

"Here they are sovereign. Everything—the social events as well as the curriculum—is planned especially for them. It gives the deaf population a long-overdue dignity."

The ramps between floors are for the convenience of wheelchair pupils, since many of the deaf have dual handicaps.

Classrooms, carpeted as an acoustical aid, have color-coordinated walls, carpets and chalkboards, and big picture windows to be aesthetically pleasing.

Since the deaf cannot hear bells signaling the change of classes or respond to fire or air raid warning buzzers, classrooms are equipped with flashing lights which blink on and off at the end of the hour and spin in a wild psychedelic display for fire drills.

Each desk is equipped with a set of earphones with an individual tuning dial so the youngster can adjust them as loud as needed. It is rare for a child to have no hearing whatever. And most of the pupils can catch vowel sounds through the earphones, which helps them read the lips of the instructor. The instructor speaks into a hypersensitive microphone which also picks up the voices of the children as they recite.

Instead of writing on the chalkboard, which would force her to turn her back on the class, the teacher faces the students and illustrates her points on a slate which is beamed onto the board by an overhead projector.

A number of classrooms are backed by observation booths hidden by two-way mirrors, for use in teacher-training and for parental observation.

"We work very closely with the parents because the few hours here are just the beginning," Mrs. Freeman said, "and need constant reinforcement at home."

Pointing out the school's up-to-date workshops and home economics rooms, Mrs. Freeman said, "some of our youngsters are slow or retarded and need vocational orientation."

We emphasize graphic arts, because studies show many deaf boys will earn their livings in graphic arts, working in print shops setting type."

In the girls' gym, an instructor taught junior high students how to beat out the rhythm to a cha-cha, so they would be able to dance to music they couldn't hear at the next school party.

"Poor balance and coordination are a problem for the deaf," Mrs. Freeman said, "because the concept of position in space is difficult for them."

We are emphasizing rhythm and modern dances, which are so important for teen-age socializing. We're going to have school dances here, too, because school is the only outlet for many of our youngsters."

Two Transfusions for Girl Report 20 Dead In Scot Fire

ATLANTA (UPI) — Doctors performed two lengthy blood transfusions on a 3-year-old girl Sunday when she failed to react to a unique operation in which her blood system was linked to a chimpanzee.

Doctors at Egleston Children's Hospital reported the condition of the girl, unidentified at the request of her parents, continued to deteriorate and she required the aid of a respirator to breathe.

The child Friday underwent a six-hour operation in which her circulatory system was connected to that of a 68-pound chimpanzee, named Cassandra, in a final effort to save her from hepatitis, a liver disease.

Dr. Joseph Patterson, who led a team of physicians performing the operation, said from the beginning the chances of the girl's survival were remote, but added, "there's always hope."

circulatory system took over the liver's functions for a time. But after a brief rally following the operation Friday, the child was reported in continually poorer condition, although she had been in critical condition and in a coma since the linkup.

Report 20 Dead In Scot Fire

GLASGOW, Scotland (UPI) — Fire today swept through a four-story upholstery plant with barred windows that apparently had no fire escapes, trapping a number of employees in smoke and flame. Police reported at least 20 persons dead.

A count at the scene showed three survivors, police said.

Firemen were going through the ruins of the B. Stern & Co. upholstery firm on the waterfront seeking victims.

Glasgow Fire Chief George Cooper said there was no sign of fire escapes or any exit at the rear of the building.

Cause of the fire and amount of damage were not immediately determined.

The windows were barred from the days when the building was used as a whisky warehouse.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks opened firm today in moderately active trading.

Shortly after the opening, the UPI stock market indicator showed a gain of 0.22 per cent on 306 issues crossing the tape. Of these, 145 advanced and 96 declined.

Steels gained ground, while autos firmed up slightly. Electronics were mixed.

U.S. Steel added 1/4 on its group, with Republic up a similar amount. Bethlehem gained 3/4.

Chrysler rose 1/4 among the autos, while General Motors climbed 1/4. Ford and American Motors held steady.

Burroughs led the electronics, rising 1/2. IBM picked up 1/4. Westinghouse dipped 1/4. General Electric 3/4, and Fairchild Camera 1/4.

Atlantic Richfield gained 1 1/2 on 10,600 shares in the oil group. Occidental rose 1/4 on 22,700 shares.

Disabled Vets Form City Unit

An organization of disabled American war veterans has been formed in Kingston.

Called Kingston Memorial Chapter 156, Disabled Americans, the group elected a number of officers including John Espey as commander.

Also elected were Casimir Lukasewski, senior vice-commander; Robert McSpirt, treasurer; William Atkinson, adjutant; Louis Naccarto, sergeant at arms; John O'Sullivan, chaplain and service officer.

All disabled veterans are invited to join the organization.

Christmas Seal Dinner Guests Tuesday Night

The 1968 Ulster County Christmas Seal Campaign under the leadership of Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb Sr. will be inaugurated officially at the special Christmas Seal Dinner Tuesday night, Nov. 19, in the Crystal Room of the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Dr. Holcomb noted that invitations have been mailed to TB Association directors, officers, county officials and key persons, volunteer workers from throughout the county area and TB-RD staff. He added, however, that this special dinner event is open to all Ulster County people who have interest in health work or who are themselves in anywise involved in TB-Respiratory Disease and health work.

Guest speaker at this traditional health fund-raising affair will be Dr. James Monroe, director of the Homer Folks (State) Tuberculosis Hospital, Oneonta, who will be presented at the dinner in his first "official" visit to Ulster County.

Saugerties Banker, John M. Robbins, Association president who will preside, joined Dr. Holcomb in urging area people to attend the dinner session and to meet Dr. Monroe. He noted that many persons in the area have had and do have deep concern about Ulster County TB patients before and since the discontinuance of the former Ulster County TB Hospital at Golden Hill. The 13 Ulster County TB patients now requiring hospital care are at the Homer Folks Hospital. They are under the broad scope of Dr. Monroe's concern and care in his scope as director of the Oneonta institution.

tuberculosis care as it relates to the patient and effects his family, and will outline the Homer Folks facilities now serving the tuberculosis patients sent there from Ulster County. The TB Association is presenting Dr. Monroe as a special event based on the hospital District Patient Services program.

Hurley Library Lists New Volumes

The Hurley Library Association has announced the extension of the library's hours during the week.

Library hours for the school year are as follows: Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday 3 p.m. and 7-8:30 p.m. The library is also open Saturday mornings from 10 a.m. until noon. There are no library hours on Sunday and Monday.

Friday afternoons the library will open at 2 p.m. for the special pre-school story hour directed by Mrs. Joseph Pfommer, librarian.

The library association announces the acquisition of the following new books:

Malcolm Wilson's Stock High

By KIRTLAND I. KING
ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson's gubernatorial stock got a big lift in the November 5 general elections. Wilson was not on the ballot as a candidate for any office, but few worked harder or campaigned more. His job was to head up the Republican drive to recapture control of the state Assembly and retain a majority in the Senate. The GOP did both.

For several years the mention of Wilson's name during discussions by party leaders of a successor to Governor Rockefeller provoked heated arguments.

Most of them agree the lieutenant-governor has earned the right to lead the GOP state ticket if Rockefeller steps down, but many feel he would have a difficult time being elected. The main argument used against Wilson is that he has been "too conservative" in his approach to various state problems. And, little has been done by Rockefeller, considered a liberal, or other Republican leaders to dispute the idea Wilson is a conservative.

During the battle for the Republican presidential nomination this year, for example, Rockefeller was asked how he would be able to get along with the conservative wing of the party.

"I have gotten along fine with my lieutenant-governor for the past 10 years," Rockefeller replied. Since the presidential elections this month, politicians have been studying the results and are now beginning to wonder whether a conservative label is a liability in New York State.

James Buckley, the Conservative party candidate for the U.

S. Senate, polled 1,109,257, the largest number of votes collected by the Conservatives since they formed their own political party six years ago. In New York City, Buckley collected more Conservative votes than Republican Jacob K. Javits, running with Liberal party backing, did on his second line. The Conservatives cast 472,123 votes and the Liberals came in with 317,862.

It appears Conservatives have been nearly doubling their total vote every time out. In 1962, David Jaquith, the party's candidate for governor, received 141,877 votes and Kieran O'Doherty, seeking a Senate seat, was given 116,151. Two years ago Dr. Paul Adams, the gubernatorial nominee, ran up a total of 510,000 as against the 212,216 for Henry Paolucci, who ran for the Senate in 1964.

"The Conservative party deserves serious consideration," one Republican leader said.

Another, however, disagreed and said he was convinced the Conservatives would go the way of all splinter parties in the next couple of years.

Some GOP leaders believe President-elect Richard M. Nixon would have won New York's 43 electoral votes if he had accepted Conservative endorsement. But, the New York leaders stopped him.

The thinking behind rejection of the Conservative offer was that New York GOP leaders could not compromise while the third party was out to beat Javits.

In 1970, however, Javits will not be on the ticket. The Republican Senate candidate is likely to be Charles Goodell, the incumbent from Jamestown. Goodell is said to be acceptable to the Conservatives and so is Wilson.

Czechs in Peaceful Coexistence

PRAGUE AP—Out at the edge of Prague, where the streetcar lines end and the paved streets change into muddy lanes, Czechs have been pursuing peaceful but not friendly coexistence with some unwelcome neighbors—Soviet occupation troops.

Some of the Russians who invaded the capital in August and later moved to the suburbs are in the process of dismantling their tents and packing up to leave the country or to move into winter barracks elsewhere. Their two months at the edge of town have passed with almost no incidents and surprisingly little contact with their Czech neighbors.

Day after day, families walk past Russian sentries or details drawing water from neighborhood pumps and silently stare straight through them as if they did not exist.

Once they reach the privacy of their homes, the Czechs become talkative. A few adventurous Czech youths who speak Russian have made contact with the young Russian soldiers and everything they report is thoroughly muffled over by the neighborhood folks.

"Why they haven't slept in beds since last spring. They were already moving around our borders in June. But when they got here they thought they were in West Berlin," reported one teen-ager student, who conversed with the Russians in their language.

His friend said, "The Russian soldiers, as opposed to the Mongolians and Armenians among the troops, are really sad. They would like to make friends, but now they realize it is no use, that the Czechs hate them."

The young Czechs laughed about another friend, Jaroslav, who has hippie-style long hair, wears blue jeans, a sleeveless t-shirt in his casket and a sweatshirt with the English words, "Don't bother me."

One day Jaroslav, wearing a badge with the French words "Liberte, Egalite, Fraternite," walked into the Russian camp and the soldiers laughed at him but then clipped his hair short and forced him to peel potatoes on kitchen police.

The Jaroslav story cannot be confirmed. Czechs in the Prague suburb of Stranice said troops in a nearby 50-tank armored unit attended a two-hour Young Communist Komosomol indoctrination session each day at 5 p.m., where they discussed Pravda and other Moscow newspapers and got the party line.

"They are not allowed to discuss political matters with us except in the presence of officers, but when the officers are absent, some of them admit we are not counterrevolutionaries," a Czech said.

Another told of a chat with a Soviet captain who said, "The fact that you wear shoes to play football instead of playing barefoot, the fact so many people wear white shirts, proves this is a nation of bourgeois counterrevolutionaries."

Soviet Spaceship Returns to Earth

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet unmanned spaceship Zond 6 has returned to earth from its journey around the moon, informed sources said today.

There was no immediate official confirmation of the return of the craft that gathered data for a manned flight to the moon.

The sources did not give details of the Zond's recovery, its condition or where it landed.

In Bochum, West Germany, a scientist said Zond 6 splashed safely into the Indian Ocean Sunday. But, he said, the Russian fleet may have not recovered it because darkness was near at the time.

"Obviously the search for Zond 6 began again today," said Heinz Kaminski, director of West Germany's Satellite and Space Research Institute.

The end of Zond 6's eight-day, 500,000-mile journey followed by eight weeks and one day the splashdown of Zond 5, the first spaceship ever sent around the moon and brought back successfully.

Moslem Who Helped the Needy Renamed U.N. Head of Refugees

By TOM HOGE
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A young Moslem prince who abandoned a life of affluent ease to help the world's underprivileged has been renamed U.N. protector of 3.5 million persons without countries.

The U.N. General Assembly voted by acclamation Friday to name Prince Sadruddin Aga Khan as U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees.

The 35-year-old prince, who was first named to the post in December 1965 will serve five years starting Jan. 1.

The prince, who is uncle of the Aga Khan IV, is following a family tradition of public service: His father, the late Aga III, was India's representative to the League of Nations and president of the League. His half brother, the late Aly Khan, headed the Pakistani delegation to the United Nations in the late 1950s, and a nephew, Prince Ameen, has served with the U.N. Economic and Social Affairs Committee.

As son of the spiritual leader of 20 million Ismaili Moslems who owned one of the world's finest racing stables and roamed the play spots of the West, Sadruddin was brought up in an atmosphere of Oriental splendor and western opulence. He is an Iranian citizen. At Harvard, he developed an interest in international affairs. He first won the attention of U.N. inner circle by helping raise $10 million to keep priceless Egyptian art treasures from being flooded by the waters of the Nile backing up behind the Aswan High Dam.

In 1962, Sadruddin was named deputy refugee commissioner and has served the cause ever since.

At present the commission has its hands full looking after the thousands of refugees swarming across borders in the volatile continent in Africa.

Seasonal Swindlers

Chamber Warns About the Guises Gyp

The Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce today warned shoppers to be wary of sharp operators who step up their activities during the Christmas season.

Peter O. Allen, executive vice-president of the local chamber, said these seasonal swindlers drain millions of dollars annually from consumers and business men, capitalizing on the Christmas rush and the fact that people tend to be more generous and trusting at this time of year.

According to the National Better Business Bureau, with which the local chamber is affiliated through membership, the Christmas gyp has many guises:

The Guises

—He may be a street corner peddler hawking cheap watches, perfume, gadgets, toys, ties and other shoddy merchandise.

—He may work for mail order firms offering toys, watches, jewelry and other items supposedly at a fraction of the retail price. When the merchandise arrives, if it ever does, it may be a cheap imitation of the item thought to have been ordered.

—He may be only a telephone voice making appeals for some unknown charitable organization or a self-described needy individual seeking clothing, food or funds.

—He may be a glib, well-dressed salesman harassing businessmen who give gifts in quantity at Christmas. Sales may be attempted in offices, at factory gates, on the street or door-to-door.

NBBB said the perfume hoax is one of the most widespread of the Christmas gyps. Christmas shoppers lose thousands of dollars each year buying imitations of well-known brands of perfumes or rebottled colognes and toilet water at exorbitant prices.

The most common perfume racket involves the sale of well-known brands of colognes and toilet waters rebottled in small purse-size containers by companies having no connection with the original manufacturers. The containers are similar in size and appearance to those used to sell small quantities of genuine perfumes, and the public is fooled into believing it is buying real perfume at bargain prices. Actually, colognes and toilet waters are being sold at several times their regular retail prices.

Counterfeit Labels

Other perfume swindles involve the use of counterfeit labels of popular brands on cheap imitations; the use of initials of nationally-known perfumes on imitations, rather than the full names, and the use of a one-time national advertisement to give credibility to inflated prices for cheap perfumes and toilet waters.

Based on past experience, these other schemes can be expected to reappear:

—The shipping of unordered merchandise to consumers by unknown charitable organizations who request donations for the goods shipped. Consumers who receive unordered merchandise through the mails are not obligated to return it or pay for it unless it is used.

Attempts to collect on C.O.D. packages supposedly for a neighbor who, the deliverer says, "is not at home." The packages may contain unordered merchandise or merely paper or cotton wadding.

Distribution of courtesy cards for purchasing gifts at discount from fictitious prices.

Mail-order rackets in which a claim stub is received stating that the shipper is holding a package which will be sent on return of the stub and a small amount. If money is sent, a cheap pen-and-pencil set or something similar is received.

NBBB outlined these guidelines for Christmas shoppers.

Consumers ordering Christmas gifts from mail-order firms should generally allow 3 or 4 weeks for delivery.

Sales may be final. Ascertain conditions of sales and obtain guarantees in writing.

Examine purchases before Christmas. Don't expect transient vendors to be around after the holiday to listen to complaints.

Deal only with retailers of known reliability.

PLANNING DINNER—Members of American Legion posts in the area go over plans for the Dec. 7 Department Commanders' Dinner to be held in the Lamouree-Hackett Post, American Legion, in Saugerties. State Commander Michael J. Kogut will be the special guest of the evening. Planners meeting are (L to R) Town of Esopus Post Post Commander G. Knute Beichert, Past County Commander Charles W. Barth, co-chairmen of the event; County Commander Vincent J. DeStasio, and Past County Commander Edgar Maurer. (Freeman photo by Haines.)

Schedule Listed For Diabetes Tests

"I'd rather not know I have a disease than live as an invalid the rest of my life."

This or something like it, is heard annually by committee members working on Diabetes Week, scheduled this year November 17-23, when they urge people to take advantage of free testing service offered.

According to the Ulster Chapter of the New York Diabetes Association nobody means that. Almost every one when faced with the decision would choose invalidism to death and undiscovered, untreated diabetes can lead to that unhappy result. But the fact is, the diabetic need not be an invalid. He can lead an active, successful, full life, the association asserted.

No more graphic proof of this can be offered than the lives of many celebrated people who did not allow diabetes to impede their careers. To cite just a few:

Bill Talbert, the tennis star who is a very successful business man.

Bill "Swish" Nicholson, Philadelphia Phillies and Chicago outfielder whose 15 years in the major leagues included playing in the 1945 Cubs-Detroit Tigers World Series.

Twenty-one-year-old Coley O'Brien, Notre Dame quarterback, who football fans will remember as the star of the nationally televised Michigan State "mythical championship" game in 1966 which ended in a 10-all tie.

H. G. Wells, the famous and prolific author who lived four score years.

Georges Clemenceau, the "Tiger" who was premier of France during World War I and who lived to be 88.

Thomas Edison, the great inventor whose long and productive life spanned 84 years.

Gail Patrick Jackson, movie star of the 30's and 40's and executive producer of the popular Perry Mason television series.

Assisting Mrs. Hilda W. Brett, diabetes detection chairman, will be Michael Roscoe, State Health Department technician and the following members of the Diabetic Detection Committee: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Begley, Margaret Bierwisch, Frances Bilyou, Dorothea Blume, Evelyn Burger, Mrs. Norman Burg, Hilda Davis, Jean Davis, Robert Davis, Irene DeCicco, Louise Fredenberg, Regina Gilvey, Edith Heckerth, Laverne Hucker, Mary Kelly, Ruth Kuhns, Jerry Marchetti, Nancy Mashayekie, Anita Ostrander, Helen Parks, Mary Page, Dan Peters, Charles Pugliese, John Pugliese, Titus B. Sims and Betty Tiano.

Special testing centers have been established at the County Office Building on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday from 2-4 and 7-9 p.m. On Saturday at First Federal Savings and Loan Assn. from 10-12 a.m. and 2-4 p.m.

Name Red Hook School Official To State Panel

RED HOOK—The Red Hook Central School superintendent of transportation has been appointed to the planning committee for the Workshop for Transportation Supervision to be held in Oswego in July, 1969.

Philip J. Moore, chief of the Bureau of Special Educational Management of the New York State Education Department, make the announcement that Bennett Feller had been chosen for the committee assignment.

The workshop, which is sponsored by the State Education Department, is attended by transportation personnel from all of the schools in the state.

Feller has attended the conference during past years and will meet in Albany on Dec. 6 to help formulate plans for the July conference.

Feller has served as chief of the Red Hook school transportation system since the opening of the central school in 1939.

Astor Study: Problem Child Result of Parental Tension

By SHANE CROSBY

RHINEBECK—Parents: when Little Johnny does good in school don't congratulate his teachers. And, when Handsome Johnny begins to look like a "hippie," you "have to take that gamble."

These answers to questions on who should get the credit for a youngster's good grades, and who should get the blame for a teenager's wayward ways came from a recent interview with the clinical director of casework at the Astor Child Guidance Center, Francis T. Bryant, in this Dutchess County community.

Bryant gave the advice to parents and he described the center's research into the tensions of home and school life and how they reflect children's problems.

The director is heading a team of researchers who are questioning parents of disturbed children in a effort to find the root of the youngster's problem without having to spend extensive time and money on interviews and investigations.

He feels that the tensions of the marriage partners reflect themselves in the disturbed child and that there is a correlation between the level of tension between parents and the degree of disturbance in the child.

Team Expanding

In a relatively new approach to the problems of children and home school tensions, the team is expanding on the findings of Dr. Roland Tharp, made on a study in 1963.

They have used a Tharp system of questioning parents as to how they would like things to be and separately questioning them on how things are in the home at the present time.

Bryant called the system of questions and resulting scores as the "first reliable way to measure a marriage."

Other factors are taken into account in the testing, and when all results are in, Bryant says, it gives the specialists the best view yet of what happens in a marriage.

Before 1963, he said, the best a professional could say about specific marriage problems was "yes-no-maybe."

He said answers obtained before the Tharp system were "so ambiguous" as to make it hard to relate the parental problems to those of the child.

So far, the Astor team has used the system on 33 cases in the center and obtained favorable results on all but one.

Bryant said the testing is to be expanded to include about 100 more cases from county residents.

He said that 87 per cent of the children showed problems in the same areas as the parents were finding tension with each other.

He said that separate work conducted by the center's case workers tended to support the hypothesis of Tharp, who was associated with the University of Arizona at the time of his study.

Length of Time

A big factor in the determination of the problems, Bryant said, is in the length of time the child had been exposed to the tensions of the parents.

He cited a case where a child was exposed to a problem the parents were facing for some four years. The child, age 12 at the time of the discovery, had "been exposed for one-third of his life."

The director broke down the number of cases handled at the center and said half could be treated there. Another 25 per cent were "beyond help" and the remaining 25 per cent only needed brief consultation.

"Preventive medicine" is the best kind of treatment, he said. "Many times 'Aunt Sally' will tell the parent that something is wrong," and the parent begins to worry.

"The child doesn't have to be sick to cause parents to be concerned."

On the subject of children in school, Bryant had this to say: "There is a saying—'No teacher should take the credit for teaching a gifted child.'—take the road blocks out of the way and you can't stop a child from learning."

"Many children are not ready for school," he added. "They are just 'not ready.' He cautioned that "pushing" ones seem slow is bad for the child. Removing the "roadblocks" to the child's development is his main approach to the freeing of a youngster's mind.

Should Do Something

He said he would not be disturbed to see parents with children who think they have a problem, when in reality there is no hindrance to the child's development. "If parents are concerned at all, they should do something about it."

There is little danger of the child being injured from the "intrusion" of the guidance workers, he advised, adding that harm could come if the parents were to "expect something" from extended sessions.

For some, he suggested, it seems to serve as a "status" to have Little Johnny under the care of a professional child psychologist.

Once they are adolescents he continued, "parents have to take the gamble." A teenager will join a group, he said, and most often it will be regardless of the happenings in the home life.

"Basic values don't start in adolescence," he said, but once a teenager is in a peer group he acts as they do. The extent of the youths' participation or what may be called the "way-outness" depends on the individual need for "kicks."

"Phases" have always been a part of growing up, he said. "When I was 13, it was smoking cigarettes."

He suggested that "a great percentage of the youth in the area" have or would take marijuana as part of "the teenage experience."

"Marijuana in itself is not harmful," said Bryant, the question is how much and how far.

"The kid who is taking drugs" is the one "who looks for kicks," Bryant pointed to those who take them heavily and said they could not find what they wanted, so must con-

October Big Month For County Sheriff

Operating the Ulster County Sheriff's Department is big business judging from the amount of money that is handled by the personnel of that office.

The October report of Sheriff William B. Martin lists $12,877.56 collected by deputies in income executions. Receipts from bails and fines totals $5,430 and receipts from fees is listed at $2,027.06.

A total of $1,973.50 worth of property was recovered and the Pistol Permit Bureau collected $408 in fees. The parking lot at the rear of the court house returned $385.19. In this department a total of 20 summonses were issued and 55 man hours recorded to handle the parking area.

Although not income, the work of trustees totaling 2,274 hours at $2 per hour represents a savings to the county of $4,548 for work done around the court house by prisoners. In other statistics the Civil Department served 74 summonses and subpoenas and 53 for the District Attorney's Office. They also handled six commitment orders; 25 income executions and 49 property executions.

The Criminal Department handled 287 complaints with 214 closed by investigation 24 by arrests and 49 still open.

The deputies in their course of duty assisted 94 motorists; investigated 34 traffic accidents and made 25 vehicle and traffic arrests. They executed two felony warrants, 37 misdemeanor or warrants including those for Family Court; two felony arrests, 29 misdemeanor arrests and served 42 Family Court summonses.

Under Special Services, the department fingerprinted 30 persons; issued 74 renewals for pistol permits, made 79 record checks and registered 32 pistols. The Criminal Department listed 162 admissions to the county jail during the month. Discharges included 69 who served their sentence; one transfer to a state institution; 14 by payment of fines; five by order of court, two by remonances and subpoenas and 77 for other causes. A total of 168 were discharged.

FTC Says Automakers Stress Sales At Expense of Warranty, Repairs

Federal Trade Commission released a controversial staff report today that charges automakers with stressing sales at the expense of proper warranty service and repair operations.

A 1965 field study, conducted largely in the Washington, D. C. area, was the jumping off point for the investigation described in the report, including extensive interviewing among the manufacturers and dealers.

"The report has focused attention on several problems," the agency said. "It concludes that many new cars are delivered to the buyer in poor condition; car owners experience difficulty in having repairs made simply and expeditiously, often causing them great inconvenience; workmanship in warranty repair work is frequently shoddy; and exclusions, limitations and conditions in the warranties are not made clear to the purchasers."

The commission itself has taken no position on the report, which is the work of two of its staff bureaus.

But the FTC announced it will open hearings on car warranties Jan. 9 and may make some proposals to Congress.

Among criticisms in the report is the charge that the automakers put too much stress on sales, giving dealers little incentive to develop strong repair and service operations.

Other points: Bad feelings about warranties could be eased if the manufacturers caught more defects at the factory and dealers did a better job of pre-delivery inspection.

Dealers might show more enthusiasm for warranty repairs if their payment from the manufacturers was increased.

Warranties should be presented in more straightforward terms and publicized more fully by manufacturers and dealers.

There will be two other investigations into the cost of auto repairs.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., has scheduled hearings starting Dec. 3 by the Senate antitrust subcommittee. Hart says the subcommittee staff has substantiated "information and impressions in the warranty area" as described in the FTC staff report.

The Transportation Department plans the other inquiry into the rising cost of fixing cars as part of its general look into the auto insurance industry.

Law Seminar Starts Tonight

The opening session of a three-part law seminar will be held at the Stone Ridge campus of Ulster County Community College tonight.

The program, open to attorneys from throughout the Hudson Valley, will start at 8 o'clock in Room 415 in the John Burroughs Science Building.

The opening session, part of a program entitled "In the Law Library II," will feature three half-hour television programs on "The Marital Deduction I, II and III." It was arranged by John America, the director of continuing education at Haviland, assistant to the president.

There will be discussions of the program by local attorneys under the direction of Norman Kellar, chairman of the Committee on Continuing Education of the Ulster County Bar Association.

Commission Probing Rebellions of Priests

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — An 18-member commission established to probe a rebellion of priests against their archbishop is beginning its investigation, which the 68 dissenting priests already have called "a pointless, toothless gesture."

The commission will hear testimony today through Thursday. A spokesman said 20 persons have asked to testify in a dispute that has rocked the Roman Catholic archdiocese of San Antonio.

The 68 priests have demanded the resignation of Archbishop Robert E. Lucey, 77, who has been spiritual leader of a half million Catholics in the 32-county archdiocese for 27 years.

The commission is made up of 12 priests and 6 laymen voluntarily formed as a fact-finding body. An observer appointed by Pope Paul VI's U.S. delegate will attend.

Dissenting priests have questioned the commission's objectivity, saying that some members have publicly criticized them.

The five-member executive committee representing the dissenting priests disclosed Sunday a letter it plans to send to Pope Paul which says that only authorities from outside the diocese can objectively investigate the demands of the priests.

"This judgment leads us to view with grave reservations—and, in effect, to reject—a fact-finding commission established on Nov. 11 by several priests."

and layment to collect facts related to the case we submitted to you," the letter said.

The priests asked the Pope and other Church officials in September that Archbishop Lucey be removed because of a lack of communication, his administration of the archdiocese, his age and his transfers of outspoken priests.

The priests asked once more for the archbishop's resignation in their latest letter.

Room Parents Total 64 at RV School

Sixty-four persons have joined the room parents' committee of the Rondout Valley Central School District's Middle School under the co-chairmanship of Mrs. Gloria Atkins and Mrs. Jessie Thompson.

Mrs. Atkins and Mrs. Ann Coler PTA president met recently with parents to organize a program of phone contacts and the establishment of a news letter.

Head Room parents for Marbletown-Rosendale townships include: Mrs. Joseph Clarke, fifth grade; Mrs. Burton Markle, sixth grade; Mrs. John Thornton, seventh grade; Mrs. Alton Wells eighth grade. For the Wawarsing-Kerhonkson-Accord area parents in fifth grade: Mrs. David Demorest, sixth grade; Mrs. John Brady, seventh grade; Mrs. Henry Burkad, eighth grade. Rondout Valley Middle School open house, originally scheduled for Nov. 12 has been set for Nov. 19 at 7:30 p. m. at the school.

Seeks Change In 'Joy Riding' Law in State

NEW YORK (AP) — Queens Dist. Atty. Thomas J. Mackell says he will ask the legislature to knock out the year-old "joy-riding" provision in the state's law covering vehicles and make any thefts of a vehicle worth $250 or more a felony.

The provision, effective since Sept. 1, 1967, makes theft of a vehicle valued at $100 or more a misdemeanor unless a jury deems it probable the thief intended to take it "wholly and forever." The provision removed "joyriding" thefts from the felony class.

But Mackell said Sunday auto theft was up 142.5 per cent in the first nine months of 1968, compared with the same period last year. Felonious car thefts were up 33.8 per cent in the same period, he said.

In view of the increase, Mackell said, he intends to ask that theft of any auto worth $250 or more be punishable by four years imprisonment, and the stealing of a vehicle worth more than $1,500 be punishable by seven years imprisonment.

Auto Pileups On Northway; 14 Injured

CRESCENT, N.Y. (AP) — Twenty-one automobiles piled up in a series of accidents near Crescent in northern Albany County Sunday night. One person was critically hurt.

State Police said the pileups happened in freezing rain and drizzle on the Northway.

Fourteen injuries were reported from the spate of pileups, but only David McDougall of Fort Edward, was critically hurt. He was hospitalized at Albany Medical Center with a fractured skull.

Shot in Card Game BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Monroe Wright, 54, was charged with first-degree manslaughter after he allegedly shot Joseph H. Jones, 27, during an argument over a card game in Jones' apartment here Saturday. Police said Wright, also of Buffalo, shot Jones once in the chest with a small-caliber pistol. Jones lived at 354 Pratt St.

Caviar Hard to Find Throughout Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — Surprising as it may sound, the average Russian rarely can find a store selling one of his country's most famous products—caviar.

He'll be lucky if he can buy a jar of the traditional holiday delicacy to serve during the biggest holiday of the year, Thursday's anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

There is a growing shortage of caviar, so almost all of it is reserved for the valuable export trade, and only limited supplies are released to Soviet citizens before holidays.

Now even these limited supplies are threatened, as the number of caviar-producing sturgeon continues to dwindle.

The fish which produces the black eggs so prized by gourmets has been hurt partly by pollution of the Caspian Sea and the Volga River, which flows into it.

The problem is so critical that last month the Soviet government issued a decree ordering the installation of antipollution shields on all offshore oil installations in the Caspian Sea and the creation of water purification stations at 100 industrial enterprises in the area.

The decree made the northern part of the Caspian a fish preserve.

In addition to the problem of pollution, sturgeon are threatened by a drop in the level of the Caspian Sea. The drop has disturbed some breeding grounds in the Volga's delta, and also has made it more difficult for upstream spawning sturgeon to enter the Volga for their long trip north.

Soviet scientists say the Caspian's level has dropped about seven feet since 1931, and is now at its lowest in 1,500 years.

The drop is attributed partly to long-range shifts in climate, but nature is not the only one to blame. Men have reduced the amount of water flowing into the Caspian from the Volga and other rivers by building dams and by draining off river water for drinking, industrial use and irrigation.

With high-priced black caviar in short supply, a valuable Soviet export trade has suffered.

Seeking other ways of earning hard currency, exporters are using lower-priced red caviar, produced by salmon, as an increasing part of total caviar exports.

Last year's total tonnage of Soviet caviar exports jumped 29 per cent to 900.5 tons from the year before. But because much of it was lower-priced red caviar, the value of the sales dropped 4 per cent to 4.7 million rubles, equal to $5.2 million at the official exchange rate.

An official of Prodtorg, the government agency that handles such exports, complained: "We do not have enough resources of black caviar. We have to sell more red."

Salmon breeding grounds in the Soviet far east, where red caviar is produced, are relatively free of such problems as pollution and lower water level.

Seeking more black caviar, to make more money on the world market, Soviet exporters have turned to importing Iranian black caviar into the Soviet Union, then re-exporting it at a profit.

Such Iranian imports climbed to 77 tons last year from 55 in 1966.

Western experts say this is only a stopgap measure which cannot solve the basic problem of a dwindling Soviet supply of black caviar.

Election Law Changes Proposed Many Times

Washington Window
By GEORGE J. MARDER

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In the past century, more than 300 constitutional amendments have been introduced in Congress to change the way of electing the President. And more will be proposed early in the 91st Congress.

Many—if not most—of the proposals have called for direct election of the President by the voters and doing away with the Electoral College.

In the past, all of the proposals have foundered on the small state's belief that the Electoral College gives them an extra voice in the selection of the President.

Political scientists for years have argued such a belief is an illusion. Increasingly, politicians are inclined to agree. The Electoral College system was part of a compromise between large and small states which created the federal union. Without it, there wouldn't have been a union.

The small states feared that if they went into a federal union with the large states, they would be crushed by mere weight of population. There concern was that the large states would run roughshod over the interests of the small states by using their greater voting power.

The compromise was to give each state, regardless of size, a guaranteed representation of two votes in the Senate. This small state "weighted influence" in Congress was carried over into the Electoral College. Each state was given a voice in voting for President equal to its representation in Congress.

Thus, the small states felt they had protection against being ignored in national elections. They felt assured that candidates for President would have to campaign for small state support as much as for the electoral votes of the large states.

However, that weighted influence started fading quickly as the two-party system developed in the United States and the winner-take-all rule grew in the states.

The winner-take-all rule is the one under which all states now operate. That is, the candidate with the greatest number of popular votes within a state wins all of that state's total vote in the Electoral College.

As a practical matter, it has meant that presidential candidates have concentrated on campaigning in the big cities and states. The winner-take-all rule, it is argued, has just about wiped out the weighted political influence originally given small states under the constitution.

Degrees Conferred

First degrees were conferred upon six candidates at the Nov. 11 meeting of Columbiettes of Kingston Council No. 275, Knights of Columbus. Attending the impressive ceremony were the Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. J. O'Reilly, chaplain; Charles Ryan, grand knight; K. of C. Joseph Bruno, coordinator; as well as K of C members and a group of Columbiettes from the Sargentaux Auxiliary including Mrs. Philip Sweeney, district deputy. Three candidates receiving degrees were from the Sargentaux Auxiliary and three from Kingston Auxiliary.

Reports on various projects were given by chairmen: penny social, Rita Chase; candy sale, Rita Senor; communion breakfast, Sue Ahl. The chairmen thanked the members for their cooperation.

Members will receive folders for the annual drive for contributions for the NYS Transcription Program for the Blind. Returns should be made to Mary Bruno, president, or Loretta Ahl, Hudson Valley coordinator.

Plans were discussed for the Dec. 9 Christmas party. Members will be notified by telephone committee as to particulars and each person is requested to bring an exchange gift and an article for the patients at the Infirmary and Infirmary Annex.

Meeting Planned

American Legion Auxiliary Unit 150 will meet at the VFW Home, Delaware Avenue, Kingston, on Tuesday, Nov. 19, at 8 p.m. All members are asked to bring gifts for the Veterans Hospital. Mrs. Robert Delaney, past president, will preside in the absence of Mrs. George Heppner, president.

Musical Society

The Musical Society of Kingston presented a program of French composers Wednesday evening, Nov. 13, at the home of Mrs. William Rylance. Mrs. Dewese DeWitt and Miss Agatha Snyder presented the program.

An example of the painting executed in the same era as the music completed the program.

Among the selections presented were: Un Bouquet des Arts de France, Ballade des Dames du Temps Jadis by Villon, Choral Speaking Group.

Alberta Davis, director; Bois-Epais, Redouble Ton Ombre by Lully; Dorothea Flick, soprano; Ann Rylance, accompanist; Gavotte Favorite de Maria by Antoinette, Miriam Erickson, Rita Wood, dance; Lelia Decker, accompanist; Naila by Delibes, ballet; Agatha Snyder; En Bat-eau by Debussy, harp; Frances Dederick; Sonatine by Milhaud; Milissa Sweet, flute; Jane Tonneson, accompanist; Selection de "Gigi," Le Prefere de Chevalier, Dorothea Flick, soprano; Ann Rylance, accompanist; Gaite Parisienne by Offenbach; Agatha Snyder, ballet.

Hostesses were Mrs. Albert Sonnenberg and Mrs. Lester Decker.

To Meet Tuesday

The Welcome Wagon Club of Kingston will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the YWCA at 209 Clinton Avenue, Kingston. The meetings are open to all newcomers in the area who have been contacted by one of the area hostesses.

All members are asked to bring canned goods or other non-perishable foods for the Thanksgiving basket for a needy family which is one of the club's service projects this year.

The first amblyopia screening was held this month at Hurley Nursery School and trained Welcome Wagon volunteers screened 22 children for the detection of "lazy eye."

The program for the Tuesday meeting will consist of slides of Africa shown by Mr. Springer from Community Chest.

Refreshments will be served and plans for the Christmas meeting will be discussed.

Anyone wishing further information should contact Mrs. Eleanor Selzo, area hostess.

Nominations Tonight

The Ladies Auxiliary to Kingston Uniformed Firefighters Association Local 491, AFL-CIO, will hold a regular monthly meeting this evening at 8 o'clock at the YWCA in Kingston. Nomination of officers will be held.

Secretaries to Meet

The Colonial Valley Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (International) will hold its regular monthly meeting this evening at 6:30 o'clock at Governor Clinton Hotel. "Getting to Know You" will be the theme of the evening, and all area secretaries are invited.

Plan Christmas Party

St. Mary's Altar Society will hold its Christmas party on Monday, Dec. 9, at Tommy's Restaurant starting at 7 p.m. Members and their friends are invited. Tickets are available from Paula Bruck and Peggy Ann McHugh. Deadline for reservations will be Monday, Dec. 2. Everyone is asked to bring a gift for the grab bag and secret pal gifts will be exchanged. Entertainment will be provided by accordionist Howard Rust.

Tiny Tips

For Firm Neck Muscles

Here's one good way to keep those neck muscles firm. Breathe slowly and deeply. Slowly bring the head forward until the chin rests on the chest. Pause a moment in this position, then slowly raise the head and drop it backward until it rests on the nape of the neck. Repeat these forward and backward movements five times each way to start, increasing to 10 times or more later on.

Rub Off Calluses

Calluses and rough spots on your feet can be kept under control by the following method: Every time you take a bath, rub the calluses with a pumice stone. After the bath, massage them with oil, glycerine, lanolin or any good cream.

Facial Formula

For a young-looking complexion, try this old-fashioned facial formula. All you need is raw egg white and some absorbent cotton. Apply the egg white to your face with the absorbent cotton. You can leave it on for 10 minutes as a fast face pick-up or overnight for a thorough facial. To remove, rinse your face with tepid water. With regular use, improved complexion will result.

Beneficial Buttermilk

Try using buttermilk to reduce large pores. Its astringent effect on the skin will reduce the pores effectively. Simply pat it on your face with your hands or with absorbent cotton pads. Let the buttermilk dry for 10 minutes or so and then rinse off with cool water.

Social Activities

Barbershop Singers Schedule Show

Members of the Poughkeepsie Chapter, Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, Inc., will present their annual show, "An Evening of Barbershop Harmony," on Saturday, Dec. 7, at Poughkeepsie High School.

The program will feature visiting quartets representing the top of the Society's competition ladder, as well as the champion "Poughkeepsie New Yorkers" chorus and chapter quartets.

The local chapter is one of more than 700 non-profit chapters in the United States and Canada chartered to preserve and encourage this American style of music. The performances include old and new songs in barbershop style balanced with touches of variety, in both quartet and chorus format. The singers have appeared many times in this area at civic, fraternal, social and charitable functions.

In addition to singing for entertainment and personal enjoyment, all chapters of SPEBSQSA contribute to the support of the Institute of Logopedics, a speech correction institute in Wichita, Kansas. At the Institute, needy children with physical speech impediments are taught to speak. In this way the Society says "We Sing That They Shall Speak."

The featured guest quartet in this year's show is the Oriole Four from the Dundalk, Md. chapter of SPEBSQSA. Since Dundalk is near Baltimore, the Quartet's name is not difficult to understand. Also featured with the Oriole Four will be the Racket Squad from the White Plains area. The name of this quartet came about because the members first met to play tennis once a week. All four had previous barbershop singing experience, and soon they were singing as well as playing tennis.

The show lineup will be completed by quartets from the Poughkeepsie Chapter and the "Poughkeepsie New Yorkers" chorus—champions of the Society's North East District, which includes Eastern New York State, the New England States and Eastern Canada. The "Poughkeepsie New Yorkers" won the chorus honors in Hartford, Conn. this past September for the third time. This most recent win carries the honor of representing this part of the country in the International Contest to be held in St. Louis, Missouri next June.

Members of the local chapter in charge of arrangements for the show include George Nagy, show chairman; Richard Schubert, promotion and tickets; William F. Fondren, publicity; Chris Kallas, program; Anton Gross, technical; William T. James III, script, format and talent; Cliff Mellow, sets and wardrobe.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Folks:

Thanks a million for sharing with us all your marvelous ideas for using those little round, plastic rings that are in the center of a roll of cellophane tape!

One sweet woman saves them for a charity group who make tray favors for hospital patients. They fashion napkin holders from these rings by covering them with colorful ribbon and yarn. She also says they provide a good substitute tie ring for Cub Scouts to use on their neckerchiefs if they have lost their regular one.

Another doll makes candle holders. She covers the end of the candle with a piece of aluminum foil so that it fits securely inside the ring. Then slips a little ring of plastic flowers over the candle and lets it rest on top of the plastic ring. Very attractive. (I know, I made two after reading her letter.)

Another wrote that she uses them to wind thread on after taking out a hem.

One dolly covers them with colored twine or yarn and joins several together to make a mat for under flower pots.

Still another sweetie-pie uses them for pedestals for tiny wooden animals and figurines. She also stacks and glues together and covers with foil or adhesive-backed plastic for a nice flower holder to be used on a hospital tray.

One darling little boy invented a game to be played by his kindergarten class and named it "Spinner." Here's how they play it:

Children sit in a circle on the floor. The leader spins the "Spinner" by standing it on edge and spinning it with his forefinger. If it comes straight back to him he has another turn. If it doesn't, he loses his turn and it passes to the person next to him. (I tried this, and after a little practice, I was able to make that little gadget return to me most every time.)

His class spent many happy times playing this little game. I thought that one quite tricky. So-o-o-o . . . gals, these little gadgets have many uses. Don't throw them away, you're sure to find a good use for them. Remember, they cost you nothing. And that's the best kind of something!

Love, Heloise

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

As manager of a large apartment building, we get lots of first-time-away-from-home young people. And such things they try to do!

Recently one of them came into the office and said she'd spent half an hour trying to light her stove burners.

I guess anyone would have a hard time trying to light an electric stove with a match!

Mrs. H. G. W.

Dear Heloise:

The soles in children's sleepers nearly always wear out before the pajamas do.

To repair them, I cut up an old plastic, flannel-backed tablecloth and got more wear out of what would otherwise have been discarded.

The plastic goes outside and the flannel part inside. They can be pinked with pink shears easily.

Aunt Anne

Dear Heloise:

When looking at my French poodle who needed a grooming badly, I thought of my sheepskin-lined car coat and wondered if the wire dog brush would work on the coat as well as on the dog.

It's simply amazing. The coat collar and lining look like new and are soft and beautiful again.

Jean McKrag

Dear Heloise:

Just grab your bath brush when you need to brush your back and shoulders after combing your hair. Sure quick and easy!

Mrs. V. P.

This column is written for you, the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise in care of this newspaper. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

Serving with Mrs. Hazenbush as co-chairmen of the event will be Mrs. Elbert MacFadden and Mrs. Lawrence B. Siewers; other committee chairmen are: talent, Mrs. Francis Vogt; patron tickets, Mrs. Herbert Gade; general tickets, Mrs. G. Robert Numrich Jr., chairman, Mrs. Adrian Kaplan and Mrs. Eugene Bernardi, co-chairmen; program, Mrs. Raymond Armater; set decorations, Mrs. C. Frederick Segar; treasurer, Mrs. Peter Corsones; music, Mrs. John Roberts; script committee and stage management, Mrs. George Rifenbary and Mrs. Frederic W. Holcomb Sr.; costumes, Mrs. Lawrence Siewers; publicity and public relations, Mrs. Arthur Davis Jr., Mrs. Kurken V. Kirk and Mrs. Frank Matthews.

The follies is being presented in conjunction with the celebration of the Auxiliary's 75th anniversary and will be under the direction of Jerome H. Cargill Productions, Inc., leading producers of amateur revues.

Wedding Announced

Miss Catherine M. Hummel, 49 Fountain Place, Poughkeepsie, and Paul J. Maguire, 88 Fulton Avenue, Poughkeepsie, were married Oct. 26 in St. Mary's Church, Poughkeepsie. The Rev. Edwin J. Kenny officiated.

The couple was attended by Mrs. Raymond Brown, Kingston, and Julian J. Sudol, Poughkeepsie.

Immediately after the ceremony, there was a reception at the Cottonwood Inn, Millbrook, after which the couple departed on a wedding trip to Bermuda.

Exhilarating Effect

For the exhilarating feeling of a cold shower without the goose bumps, spray or stroke on after-bath fresheners from head to toe when you come out of the tub. The lotion silken your skin, and the slight astringent action will help close pores and refine your complexion.

Nardone-Block Betrothal Told

Mr. and Mrs. Louis P. Nardone, 16 Josephine Avenue, Kingston, announce the engagement of their daughter, N. Beverly, to Jeffrey Allen Block, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Block Jr., of Saugerties.

The bride-elect attended Kingston High School and is employed at F. L. Russell Corporation, Mt. Marion.

Her fiancé was graduated from Saugerties High School in June 1965. He recently returned from 18 months duty in the U.S. Army at Vietnam and is employed at Albany Avenue Garage, this city.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Scalp Stimulant

One easy-to-use method of combating dandruff is to use a mixture of equal parts of vinegar and water. Part the hair and apply the liquid to the scalp with absorbent cotton. The treatment also cleans and stimulates the scalp. You can use it as a treatment by itself or before shampooing.

Start Day Right

Start your day with a happy attitude. Before you hop out of bed, tell yourself it's going to be a great day. Even if you feel draggy, make yourself move fast and you'll come awake sooner. You'll be surprised. It really works.

INDEFINITE CHRISTMAS GIFT CAUSES CONFUSION

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been bothered by the same problem every Christmas for the last five years. I have two small sons. Every year an uncle of mine encloses a $5 bill in his card. He never makes it clear for whom the money is intended and this always leaves me at a loss as to how to acknowledge the gift. I would appreciate your help.—Mrs. D. H.

Dear Mrs. H.: When you write to thank him for the $5, ask him if he wishes it to be divided between the children, or to go towards a family project.

To Stack or Not To Stack
Dear Mrs. Post: You state, in a maidless home at dinner time, to remove plates one in each hand—not to stack. With eight guests, that would mean eight trips if one held dinner plate in one hand and bread and butter plate in the other. Can I properly place the butter plate on the dinner plate? This would reduce my trips to the kitchen to four instead of eight.—Mrs. G. Newton.

Dear Mrs. Newton: Yes. When you are a do-it-yourself hostess, you may carry out the butter plate on the dinner plate.

shower several guests presented the mother-to-be with silver items for the baby. These were not engraved but each guest assured the mother-to-be that she (the mother) could have the items engraved at the jeweler at which the gift was purchased. Is it not poor taste to give a gift of silver and then let the receiver be responsible for having it engraved? Wouldn't it have been better to present the silver gift when the baby is born, with the baby's name already engraved?—Maxine.

Pore Cream Needed to Refine Disturbed Skin

Even blackheads and pimples* yield. Cream acts in, around, under and through the pores

New York:—In one week a disturbed skin can be prettier, clearer and finer-looking by using a special pore cream. If your skin is disturbed—in color, texture, surface imperfections or coarse pores, it needs active help. And that is what you get with Deep Deep Pore Cream. 1. The cleaningest, fluffiest of creams. 2. After you tissue it off, countless invisible droplets remain—and penetrate—in, around, under and through the pores for finer skin texture. (Even blackheads and "surface pimples outwardly caused yield.") 3. Clears the skin with positive action to lighten and clear. Virtually renews the surface skin! 4. Moisturizes—stimulates the skin's own dewiness. To disturbed skin, Deep Deep Pore Cream brings new hope of a clear, fresh complexion from the trustworthy 54-year-old Mitchum laboratory. In fact, you get visible improvement in ten days or return unused portion to retailer for full refund. Even blackheads, pimples, coarse pores! Deep Deep is on sale from coast to coast at $2.00 for the 90-day supply.

For Love of Heidi?

TV Fans Miss Last Minute Raider Victory

By GARY KALE
UPI Sports Writer

The New York Jets are sorry they didn't miss the last minute of the Oakland game, too.

Millions of television viewers were denied the spice of the action Sunday when the National Broadcasting Company tuned out the game in favor of a regularly scheduled children's program.

New York thought it was child's play when the Jets took a 32-29 lead going into the final minute. A victory would have clinched at least a tie for their first Eastern Division title.

A crowd of 53,318 in Oakland saw the finish. What the national television audience missed was the Raiders scoring two touchdowns within a nine-second span to walk off the field with a 43-32 victory.

Julian Goodman, president of NBC, apologized for the "forgivable error committed by humans who were concerned about the children expecting to see Heidi."

NBC switchboards were deluged by phone calls demanding an explanation for the sudden video curtailment of this key game.

Jets coach Weeb Ewbank was similarly bombarded with "what happened?" questions.

Ewbank kept the press waiting 20 minutes and then said, "For us, you can call it a Mexican victory. We all got out of it alive."

Defensive back coach Wal Michaels concurred. "It was a game where the most face mask violations in my experience were called."

Jim Turner's 26-yard field goal late in the fourth quarter, his fourth of the game and 14th in the last three contests, sent New York into its 32-29 lead.

Then Daryle Lamonica threw his fourth touchdown pass of the game with 42 seconds left to boost Oakland into the lead.

Preston Ridlehuber's two-yard touchdown vault with a recovery fumble on the ensuing kickoff killed off New York's last chance.

Houston Beats Denver

Houston, faced with ouster if the Jets achieve their magic number of two in the final four games, routed Denver 38-17.

Kansas City kept its half-game lead over Oakland and San Diego in the Western Division with a 31-17 triumph over 21-6 mud-spattered win over Buffalo; and Cincinnati maulled Miami 38-21.

Lamonica's other TD tosses went nine yards to Warren Wells, 48 to Billy Cannon on a perfect screen and 22 to Fred Biletnikoff. Joe Namath finally broke out of his slump with his first touchdown pass in seven games, a 50-yarder to Don Maynard.

Quarterback Pete Beathard ran for two touchdowns and passed to flanker Mac-Haik for two more scores as Houston's hopes were fanned by the Jets.

Floyd Little accounted for one Denver tally on a 67-yard punt return.

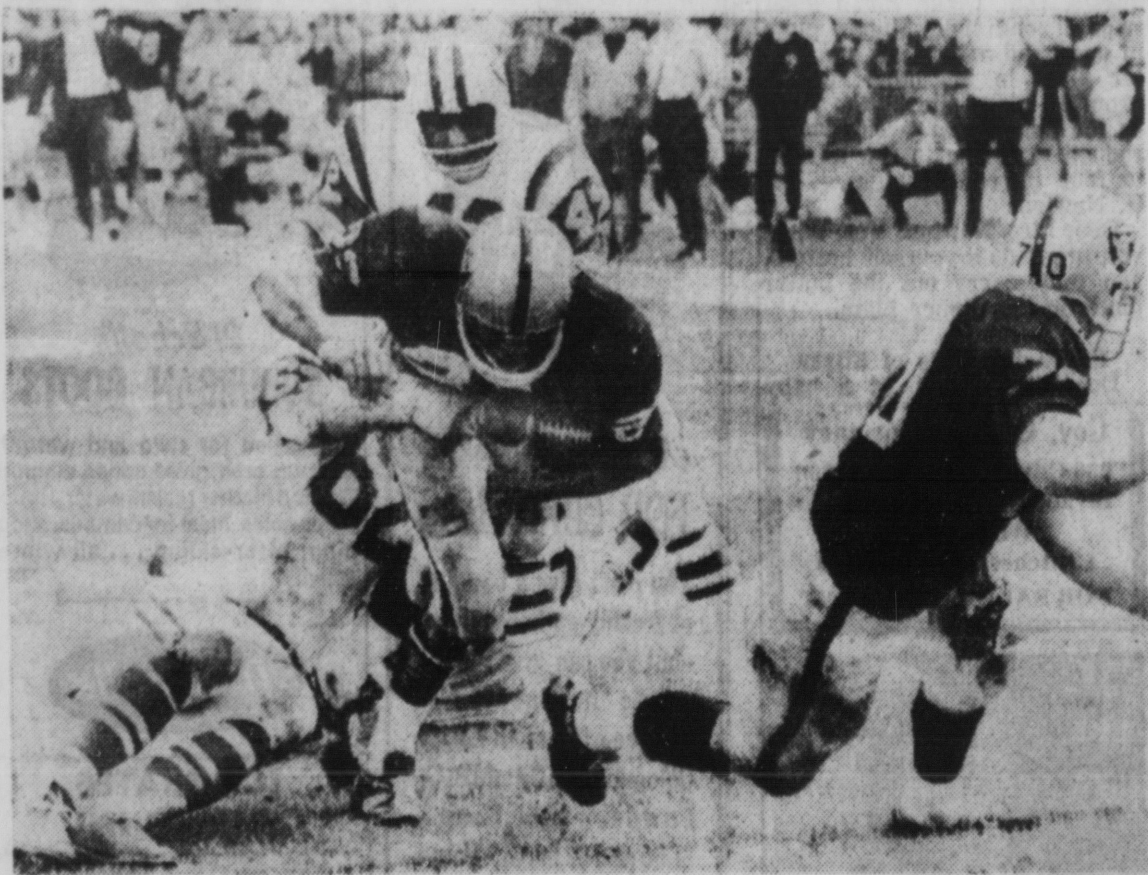

Len Dawson "bombed" Boston with touchdown passes of 90, 77 and 43 yards, while Goldie Sellers took the starch out of the Patriots with a 76-yard punt return for a first period

Jacques MacKinnon snared two John Hadl passes and converted them into scores of 18 and 62 yards in San Diego's first half rally. Buffalo tallied on Bruce Alford's field goals of 25 and 16 yards.

Paul Robinson, the AFL's leading rusher, scored on touchdown runs of 54, 15 and five yards as Cincinnati won its third AFL game. Bob Griese threw three touchdown passes for Miami.

Giants Shade Eagles 7-6, In Most Offensive Battle

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Frank Tarkenton tossed a 33-yard touchdown pass to halfback Bobby Duhan on the sixth play of the second period and that was enough to give the sputtering New York Giants a 7-6 victory over the hapless Philadelphia Eagles Sunday in a sloppy game marked by mistakes on both sides.

The loss was the 10th in a row for the winless Eagles, tying a team record set in 1936 as they protected their worst record in pro football and remained in the lead for the rights to O.J. Simpson.

The Giants weren't much better in the game marked by six interceptions—one called back by a penalty—and the futility of Eagle quarterback Norm Snead, who completed just one pass, a screen, in the second half. It was more a case of inept offense rather than good defense in the poorly played contest.

But the victory boosted the Giants' record to 7-3 and kept them one game behind Dallas (8-2) in the Capital Division.

The game was scoreless in the second half as the crowd of 62,896 amused itself by booing the Giants. A small contingent of Eagle fans countered by carrying a big "Joe Must Go" sign around the stands in reference to Eagle coach Joe Kuharich.

It looked like a football game only for the first six plays of the second period. The Giants took a punt on their own 36 and marched 64 yards in six plays with Tarkenton perfectly hitting Duhan who easily beat linebacker Fred Brown.

That put the Giants ahead 7-3 and Sam Baker, who kicked a 19-yard field goal in the first period, kicked a second 19-yarder with one second to go in the first half to make it 7-6.

The second Eagle field goal was set up when Al Nelson made the first of his two interceptions when Tarkenton tried to pass from his own seven. Neither team threatened in the futile second half although the Giants' Pete Gogolak did attempt and miss a 47-yard field goal.

Snead was unable to move the Eagles close enough for even a field goal attempt in the second half. He hurried his passes and at times seemed intent only on getting rid of the ball before he was hit even though the Giants weren't doing a particularly good job of rushing him.

It looked like the Eagles were going to get a last chance with the ball when the Giants had to punt from the Philadelphia 43 with 1:28 remaining. But Mel Town was called for roughing kicker Ernie Koy, giving the ball back to the Giants, who ran out the clock.

Minnesota's 'Marked Men' In Central Division Lead

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer

After 10 weeks on the National Football League firing line the Minnesota Vikings are marked men . . . and proud of it.

"It's the mark of a winner when you can win the close ones," Coach Bud Grant said Sunday after his Vikings grabbed the Central Division lead with a 13-6 come-from-behind victory over the Detroit Lions.

Minnesota, which finished in the Central cellar a year ago, moved one game ahead of the injury-plagued Chicago Bears, who bowed to Atlanta 16-13 and lost quarterback Virgil Carter for the rest of the season.

Dallas' Don Meredith also was forced out of action in the Cowboys' 44-24 romp over Washington and Green Bay's Bart Starr was hurt in the Packers' 29-7 victory over New Orleans as injuries continued to throw NFL signal-callers for losses.

Morrall Makes It

But Earl Morrall, the veteran quarterback who stepped in for Baltimore's ailing Johnny Unitas at the outset of the campaign, remained in top form as the Colts trampled St. Louis 27-0 and Cleveland passer Bill Nelson sparked against his former Pittsburgh teammates as the Browns ripped the Steelers 45-24.

The San Francisco 49ers held Les Angeles to a 20-20 standoff.

The Vikings, who edged Green Bay's defending NFL champs

14-10 last week, pushed their record to 6-4 as Jim Lindsey bulldozed over for a third period touchdown and Fred Cox booted his second field goal of the game with less than a minute remaining.

Detroit had taken a 6-3 half time lead on a pair of field goals by Wayne Walker, his first, since Nov. 12, 1967.

"It's not the first time we've come off at halftime without a good taste in our mouth," said Grant, whose Vikings finished no higher than third place in seven previous NFL seasons.

Carter, the rookie quarterback who had sparked the Bears to four consecutive victories, suffered a broken right ankle in the third period when he was hit by two Atlanta tacklers on an end sweep. He joins halfback Gale Sayers, shelved for the remainder of the season with torn knee ligaments, on the mounting Chicago casualty list.

Dutchman Flies

The Falcons, who went into the game with a 1-8 record, broke a 13-13 tie on Bob Etter's 20-yard field goal with 10 seconds left in the first half. Bob Berry set up the winning three pointer with a 66-yard pass to Paul Flatley after scoring Atlanta's two touchdowns on one-yard sneaks.

Meredith flipped two touchdowns passes before tearing a muscle in his left knee as the Cowboys held their one-game lead over New York in the Capital Division by overpowering the Redskins.

"I'll hurt for a couple of days, but I think it will come around," said the often-injured Dallas ace. "I don't know about playing next Sunday (against the Bears). That will be close, but I won't be out more than that."

Starr gave way to Zeke Bratkowski early in the third quarter after being decked on an 11-yard scramble.

"Bart bruised his ribs earlier in the game," said Packers Coach Phil Bengtson.

"It might be a severe bruise or fracture, but none of this is any good."

Starr, however, said he would start next week against Washington. The Green Bay veteran set up two touchdowns with 33 and 47-yard air strikes to Carroll Dale before leaving the game.

The Colts took a one-half game lead over Los Angeles in the Coastal Division race with their ninth victory against one loss and second shutout in three weeks. Morrall tossed three scoring passes and Baltimore defenders intercepted Cardinals quarterback Jim Hart five times.

Nelson also connected for three touchdowns passes as the Browns, 7-3, increased their Century Division lead over St. Louis to 1½ games. Dick Shiner, whom the Browns traded for Nelson, had five passes picked off by the alert Cleveland secondary.

Bruce Gossett's 20-yard field goal with 17 seconds to play salvaged a tie for the Rams against San Francisco, which surged to a 20-10 lead before Roman Gabriel hit Bill Truax with a 12-yard payoff pitch midway in the final period.

Ferraro Captures Pin Title

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

Jack Ferraro captured the city match game bowling championship with 80.17 Petersen Points in the two-week tournament that ended Sunday at the Bowlatorium.

He won 12 of 16 games against seven opponents, knocking down 3417 pins for a cool 213-plus average and a three-point margin over runner-up Bob Shelghtner, who moved past first round leader Bruce (Red) Hinkley in the last two games.

But there's a little more to the story than the bare statistics.

Ferraro, who is rapidly acquiring a wide reputation as a ball driller with a high score gimmick, used one of his own creations to capture and nail down the title with 198-178 and 231-206 wins over Hinkley in the position round.

"I've been throwing the ball a couple of months," said Ferraro, who is around the 205 in two local leagues.

"It's not really an original idea, because Don Carter experimented with it a few years back with great success," he added.

Ferraro explained how the new drilling process differs from the conventional style.

"We give the ball a little more offset by taking more weight off the top of the ball and moving the weight closer to the fingers," he pointed out. "The offset is a little to the left and down from the top."

What does the new style drilling do that the conventional didn't.

"It gives the ball more kick at the finish," said the new champion.

Going into the eighth or position round, Ferraro led with 74.36 Petersen Points. Hinkley, first half leader with a perfect 8-0 record and 43.04 points had 71.49 and Shelghtner was in third place, five pins behind at 71.44.

Ferraro and Hinkley drew lanes 19 and 20, while Shelghtner drew Rich Michaelis for his final opponent on lanes 25-26 where earlier he had rolled a 223-223-446 to hand Ferraro his only defeat in the tournament.

Hinkley ran into early trouble in the first position game, with a split (5-7) and miss (4-pin) in the third box. Ferraro drew the 4-6 split in the fourth frame and again in the eighth but a four-bagger in between enabled him to win, 198-178. He was in command all the way in the final game, with an opening triple and two doubles for 231 to Hinkley's 206.

Shelghtner, meanwhile, took his opener from Michaelis, 204-193 and his 214-204 win in the finale enabled to sneak past Hinkley my three pins for the runnerup spot.

Trailing the first three finishers were, in order: Sonny Barnes, Rich Michaelis, Bob Overfield, George Glaser and Bob (Tall) Smith.

Upstate Runners Dominate Annual YMCA Road Racing

Albany runners captured first places in the two divisions of the second annual Kingston YMCA Road Race Saturday.

Larry Frederick of the Albany Track Club ran away with the 6.4 mile event in good time of 34:45. Gene Foster of the Oneonta Track Club took the second spot.

The Albany Road Runners scored a low 16 points in cross country style scoring to take the team trophy in the 3.8 mile race.

Ontario's Craig Hubbell, one of the top scholastic runners in the area during his career as an Indian, took second place in the 3.8 mile race and was awarded a special trophy as the outstanding local entrant.

Big Four Forms Nucleus

Swimming Prospects Rated Tops for Maroon

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

The greatest swimmer in Kingston High school history—Charles Plunket—is playing his strokes for the Cornell frosh, but Coach Ron Gabriele has enough horses holding over from last year to look ahead to the 1968-69 campaign with solid confidence.

Two members of the Terrific Trio of 1967-68—Craig Murray and Gene Gruner—are still around to haunt Maroon opponents in the new season which has the earliest getaway date ever—Dec. 13 in Poughkeepsie.

In addition to Plunket, the Maroons lost by graduation such worthies as Dave Roberts, Bob Wells, Andy Jones and Howard Halpern. Terry Wilson, a promising sophomore but-terfly, transferred to Iowa.

Immediately behind Murray and Gruner, seniors Pete Helmich, a three letter man (football, baseball and swim- ming) and John Brinnier figure to play big roles. Helmich will assume the No. 1 spot in the 100 and 200-yard freestyle events, while Brinnier takes over as top man in 400 yard free and shared the 200-yard freestyle with Helmich. Kevin Churchill is rated top man in the 100-yard backstroke.

Unbeaten Last Season Gruner, a senior, and Murray, a junior, were undefeated last season. College scouts already are drooling over Gruner. They can't touch Craig as a junior but they're looking. Both qualified for the New York State meet last year and Coach Gabriele expects both to go unbeaten this season, although both will undoubtedly be called upon to compete in new events.

Backup roles are going to be assumed by such veterans as Gary Schantz, George Schonger, Al DeForrest, Dave Brinnier, Mike O'Hara, Larry Pizk and Ray Davis. Of the newcomers, the most promising appear to be Sophomores Steve Lupton and Joel Helmich. They switched from basketball to swimming this year and will be pushing the veterans hard for starting roles.

Among the freshmen, Brandon Jones, Terry Allred and Bruce McCrindle are expected to make strong bids for starting jobs and key assignments if the Maroons run into a slump.

Gruner will stay in the 100-yard butterfly but switches from the 200-yard freestyle to the 50 freestyle. Murray stays in the 200-yard individual medley but switches from the 400 free to 100 yard breast-stroke.

Counts on Big Four

Commenting on the upcoming season, Coach Gabriele said: "We've hit particularly hard by graduations this year and our main job is the surround the Big Four—Murray, Gruner, Helmich and Brinnier, with enough winning swimmers to make this a successful season."

The Maroons will engage in 12 regular meets this season, the largest schedule in the brief history of swimming at Kingston High. Also on the agenda are the Section 9 meet in New Paltz and the New York State event in Westchester county in March.

Kingston enjoyed its most successful season to date with a 6 and 2 record and the Duso title last year. The locals were 5-1 in the DUSO to edge Newburgh by a meet for the title.

Despite Kingston's veteran squad, Newburgh is the pre-season favorite in the DUSO, Gabriele said.

The schedule:

Trophies were awarded to the first three runners in each race, fourth through 10th positions.

Sixty five runners from track clubs, colleges and high schools in Ulster, Orange, Dutchess, Albany and Otsego counties competed in the second annual which, like the inaugural in 1967, was plagued by a steady drizzle.

Dr. Fred Switz was director of the meet. Officials were Vic Nippers, Carlton Bell and Barry Leavay.

World Cup to Canada

ROME (UPI)—Canada today held the golf cup it gave the world 16 years ago and had tried in vain ever since to get back.

The Canadians did it in the most dramatic finish in World Cup tournament history, by surging on the next to the last hole of the 72 hole event at the nearby 7,850 yard Olgiata course.

And it was the Americans they beat.

Canada finished the four-round tournament, called until last year the Canada Cup, with a total of 569 while Lee Trevino of El Paso, Tex., and Julius Boros of Mid-Pines, N.C., failed in their bid to make it a U.S. win for the tenth time in 16 years.

Tough Sked for JAC

John A. Coleman High will have its first varsity basketball team this season with a rugged schedule that should give them valuable experience and probably put them to the test many times.

According to head coach and athletic director Pat Taffee, "the team is inexperienced on the varsity level and will probably be underdogs in all our games." "However, I am sure we will rise to the occasion for each game and give forth a great effort." He continued, "I would not be surprised if we came up with some startling upsets in the course of the season."

"The team is young and will learn in each game and with the fine spirit shown in practice were looking to the awesome challenge against such tough teams as Monticello, Ontario, Liberty and Rondout Valley."

The team consists of two seniors, Captain Hank Harder, and Gary Grier. Among nine juniors are Craig Renn, Pat Harder, Bob Bouchard, Chris Seche, John Fitzgerald, Bill Curran, Pete Stenson, George Stulb and Wayne Debrosky. The lone sophomore is Don Hastings.

Taffee felt, "the team will surely improve with each game and the boys have been working hard in practice." We are anxious to get started." Coleman's first two games will be against Roosevelt on Dec. 3 and Monticello on Dec. 10.

The junior varsity team will be coached by Don Cicale, while the freshman mentor is Joe Cavano.

"The boys have been working hard in practice and will surely improve with each game," Taffee said. "We are anxious to get started," he added.

Coleman will play its first two games at home—with Roosevelt on Dec. 3 and Monticello on Dec. 10.

The Jayvees will be coached by Don Cicale, with Joe Cavano handling the freshman squad.

Weather Slows Deerslayers

An all-night rain on top of slush and wet snow put a damper on first day prospects for thousands of deerslayers across the state today.

Most of the leading deer habitats were shrouded in darkness at the 6:48 a. m. opening time and figured to be the same long before the official sunset time of 4:48.

First reported kill was registered at Van Bramer and Perks' Service Station on the Saugerties Woodstock Road by Duffy Mower of Veteran. It was a six-pointer felled with a Remington 30-06.

It takes a week to make the car.
And 3 years to make the mechanic.

Oh the difference between a bug and a man. In just seven days a piece of steel evolves into a sturdy Volkswagen. But only after three years does a raw recruit evolve into a bona fide Volkswagen mechanic. It's not an easy process. He starts with a lowly doorknob and works his way up to the electrical system. (With an eagle-eyed supervisor over his shoulder.) He takes every part apart. And puts it back together again. Over and over and over. Then we clock him. If he does the right job in the right time, bully for him. He does it again. Only after he passes the test twice do we feel he's mastered that part. And can go on to another. But this is only part of the grind. When this man's not working on the VW, we're working on him. At a Volkswagen training school. There he spends seven hours a day in class studying about the car. So by the end of his apprenticeship, he knows every nook and cranny in a VW. For once, man counts as much as the machine.

Kickers Win 5-3; Tie for Premier Lead

MORGAN HILL—The in-dominable Kingston Kickers proved again Sunday that a slight loss of sleep is only incidental to their performance on the soccer field the next day.

They sounded tocsin with great enthusiasm Saturday night at the annual club hijinks at Oehler's Mountain Lodge, but yesterday they braved a cold, wet, snowy miserable day to turn back the high scoring Bridgeport eleven, 5-3, and move into a tie for first place with the Newark Sport Club.

And by a helluva coincidence, the two leaders clash next Sunday at Oehler's on the next to the last game in the first half of the 1968-69 Premier Division season.

Each team has 12 points, Kingston on five wins and two ties, Newark with six wins and two setbacks. The Garden Staters have played one more game than Kingston.

Two timely goals in the last 15 minutes of play clinched the victory for Coach Bob Graves' squad after Bridgeport played them virtually even (3-2) in the first half.

Henry Ingber, subbing for Steve Kovalenko, drove home a 20-yard shot at the 77-minute mark to put the locals ahead 4-2. Three minutes later, All-America Eugene (Gino) Ventriglia iced the contest by converting Klaus Weber's free kick. Until this point, the game was strictly up for grabs, Coach Graves said.

Bridgeport, one of the league's most offense-minded teams, opened the scoring two minutes after the opening whistle when goalie Newmertz chucky bobbed an easy pass and Bill Kossi, the Bridgeport wing, pounced on the loose ball for the goal.

At the 15-minute mark, Jim Reinhardt, who never does anything in routine style, picked up a short pass from Reiner Schwebel and drove a sensational 30-yard shot into the net. Four minutes later, Klaus Weber passed to Ventriglia for Kingston's second goal.

Six minutes later, Klaus Weber booted home the Kickers' third goal with an assist from Kovalenko.

Despite an easy first goal against him, goalie Newmertz chucky emerged as the outstanding player in the Diving after repeated shots in the snow and mud, he constantly thwarted the ever dangerous Bridgeport forwards.

Kingston's old nemesis—Jim White, and all-star performer, scored Bridgeport's second goal and was always a threat, Mike Gray picked up a loose ball at the 83-minute mark to close out the scoring at 5-3.

Kentucky Commission Hears Dancer's Case

By DREW VON BERGEN
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—The Kentucky State Racing Commission opened a hearing today to determine whether Dancer's Image should receive $122,600 first place money in the 94th running of the Kentucky Derby.

The colt finished first last May 4 but was disqualified and placed last.

Attorneys for Peter Fuller, the Boston millionaire owner of Dancer's Image, and Assistant State Attorney General George

F. Rabe, counsel for the commission, were expected to present their opening arguments regarding the disqualification of Dancer's Image after a post-race urinalysis.

At issue is an appeal by Fuller of a ruling by stewards at historic Churchill Downs that Dancer's Image raced while a prohibited drug was in the grey colt's system.

The stewards acted after Kenneth W. Smith, a 52-year-old state chemist, reported finding evidence of phenylbutazone, or a derivative thereof, in the horse's urine.

Phenylbutazone, an anti-inflammatory drug and painkiller, is not allowed to be in a horse's system at race time under Kentucky racing laws.

After receiving Smith's report, the stewards disqualified Dancer's Image and awarded first money to Calumet Farm's Forward Pass, who finished second. The other leading finishers were also moved up a notch in the purse distribution.

The commission, however, ordered the purse held in escrow pending an outcome of the hearing.

Rangers Vault Over Habs 3-2

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

"The posts," Emile Francis, an old goaltender, once observed, "are a goalie's best friends."

They came through for Ed Giacomin, the New York Rangers' goalie Sunday night, helping him preserve a 3-2 victory over Montreal that moved New York past the Canadiens and into first place in the National Hockey League's East Division.

Francis, general manager of the Rangers, had to like the clanging sounds made by two Montreal shots that banged harmlessly off the goal posts behind Giacomin in the third period.

The first was by Mickey Redmond—a shot on which several Canadian skaters lifted their sticks, indicating a goal. The second was by Jacques Lemaire. Either one would have tied the game for the Canadiens, who dropped one point behind New York in the East race.

Elsewhere Sunday night, Boston ripped Oakland 6-3, Philadelphia dropped Los Angeles 3-1, Minnesota and St. Louis played a 3-3 tie and Toronto tied Chicago, 1-1.

On Saturday, New York trimmed Pittsburgh 2-1, Toronto dropped Chicago 3-1, Minnesota nipped Los Angeles 3-2, Oakland battled Montreal to a 3-3 tie and Detroit tied St. Louis, 1-1.

Fred Stanfield's power play goal broke a second period tie and then the Boston center added another goal in the third period as the Bruins whipped Oakland. Boston remained third in the East Division, just two points back of the Rangers.

Marcel Pronovost's 45-foot shot skipped off Chicago's Howie Young and into the Black Hawks' net for Toronto's tying goal in the third period. It was od.

St. Louis bombed Cesare Maniago with 54 shots but needed a goal by Ron Schock with less than seven minutes remaining to tie the Minnesota.

Claude Larose and Jean Paul Parise had hit to give the North Stars a third-period lead before Schock connected.

Celtics Bomb Suns 130-98; Lakers 105-94 Over Sonics

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Remember all that talk about much trouble Los Angeles was having winning, despite the presence of Wilt Chamberlain, Jerry West and Elgin Baylor? Well, that's all it was—talk.

Right now, the Lakers are having their say, and they're leaving the rest of the Western Division of the National Basketball Association speechless.

That's the way it was Sunday night as the Lakers hogged the floor and swept aside the Seattle SuperSonics 105-94 for their eighth consecutive victory and a 4½ game lead in the division.

The Lakers now stand 12-4 with no other team in the division over .500.

regained the lead in the East with a 130-98 breeze over Phoenix, giving the Celtics an edge of 36 percentage points on Baltimore.

In the only American Basketball Association game Indiana raced past the New York Nets 114-91.

With some help from rookie Bill Hewitt, Chamberlain, West and Baylor sank the Sonics. Chamberlain had 17 points, despite hitting only three of 17 free throws; Baylor hit 26, and West 19 as they overcame one-point deficit entering the last quarter. It was then that Hewitt, who had 14 points, hit key baskets to keep them on top.

Boston took an early lead and blew Phoenix off the court for a 19-point halftime spread. Bailey Howell and Larry Siegfried had 28 and 22 points, respectively, for the Celtics.

Bob Netolicky hit 13 of his 24 points in a third period surge that turned a 54-50 halftime lead for Indiana into an 18-point advantage for new Coach Bob Leonard's first victory. Roger Brown also had 24 points for the Pacers and Mel Daniels 21. Oliver Darden had 22 for the Nets.

On Saturday in the NBA, Los Angeles dropped San Francisco 119-112, Boston beat San Diego 120-112, Cincinnati stopped Atlanta 130-125, New York crushed Chicago 119-97, Philadelphia hammered Milwaukee 136-92 and Seattle edged Detroit 123-119.

New Polyester Snow Tire

We call it the "quiet one" for a pretty obvious reason. The Polyester Super Traction runs quiet. Really quiet. On all kinds of roads. Under all kinds of weather conditions. Matter of fact, the Super Traction handles as well on dry pavement as it does on ice and hard packed snow. (Exhaustive road tests at over 123 miles per hour proved that.) Now you can forget about the weather. The Super Traction ignores it. Gets you there on time. (Mobil built it wide across for better traction.) Gets you there comfortably. No thumps. No bumps. Polyester cord combines the strength of Nylon and the smooth riding characteristics of Rayon. Gets you there safely. And keeps on getting you there. (Round shoulders and extra-high tire wall make for extra-long tire life. Twin-center, deep-cut cleats cut out skidding-sliding.) Come in and ask for the quiet one. We'll know what you want. If you want an even wider tread, ask for the Mobil Polyester Super Traction Oval. It comes with red stripe on one side and white stripe on the other.

LIFETIME GUARANTEE

New Mobil Passenger Tires are guaranteed against defects in workmanship and material for the life of the original tread. They are also guaranteed against normal road hazards such as blowouts, fabric breaks and cuts which render the tire unserviceable.

If examination shows the tire has failed under the terms of this guarantee, we will make a reasonable allowance on the purchase of a new tire based on Mobil's current predetermined price for adjustment, plus applicable taxes. Allowance will be based on remaining tread wear as determined by tread wear gauge.

This guarantee does not cover consequential damage, nor damages from running flat or from wheel misalignment, nor the cost of repairing punctures or tires marked "second." Liability is limited to replacement of the Mobil tire.

Javits Critical of Nixon's 'Tired Old Diplomats' View

PARIS (UPI)—Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who disagreed with fellow Republican Richard M. Nixon during the election campaign, has criticized the President-elect on peace talks. Javits said he did not agree with Nixon's appraisal of United States negotiators in the Vietnam peace talks here as "tired old diplomats."

The Republican senator, re-elected by a whopping majority Nov. 5, said Saturday he would ask Nixon to keep at least one of the diplomats on during his administration.

The New York senator, who arrived in Paris from Brussels where he attended the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) meetings, said "I would not say that at all" when asked about Nixon's statement that Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and his deputy Cyrus R. Vance are "tired old diplomats."

Investor Forum

Harry C. France

By HARRY C. FRANCE
Capital spending by major American corporations is a great force for all investors to follow. Today, this is especially true with growing costs, higher taxes and an inflationary dollar to contend with.

For the year 1969, 100 of this great country's business enterprises have scheduled about $66 billion for capital expenditures. It takes vision and courage for corporate directors and officers to allocate such sums to promote growth.

Skilled workers are in short supply in many industries. To meet this need, new and more productive machinery must be brought into being.

One of America's big tire and rubber corporations is spending around $200 million in 1969 to purchase equipment that will make tires cheaper and stronger.

Scores of corporations are upgrading employees rapidly so that by greater efficiency the workers can earn more and improve their standards of living. Low wages in many foreign countries where goods are made to sell in American markets furnish a challenge to management here. New machinery is the answer.

A top automobile manufacturer will increase its capital spending from $225 million in 1968 to about $300 million next year. The common stock of this company recently made a new high, reflecting the optimism of the management.

The auto industry, a key to national prosperity, will spend nearly $2 billion expanding its productive and creative activities next year.

The chemical industry is steadily seeking out research chemists who will push the horizons back. A top enterprise in this field employs more than 2,000 research people, each of whom has a Ph.D. degree.

National income is in a strong upward trend. Year by year, pockets of poverty are being replaced by a measure of affluence.

It is to be hoped that in the near future America's war costs can be drastically reduced. If half of the U. S. military budget could flow into productive enterprise, a tremendous impetus to national prosperity would follow.

Millions of people on relief could be vocationally trained and eventually become self-supporting taxpayers. In New York City, alone, there are presently 900,000 on relief, and it is costing the city more than $1 billion a year to keep them going.

Readers of this column who have money to invest should grow with America. Despite the pockets of poverty, the basic national economy is strong and prosperous. Industry and finance are, generally speaking, efficient.

The vitality of corporate enterprise furnishes the encouragement an investor needs in these days of high costs, growing inflation and a deteriorating dollar.

Important investment guidelines and facts about 100 businesses are provided in Dr. France's new 48-page booklet, Managing Money. Send $1 (30 stamps) to Dr. Harry France, The Kingston Daily Freeman, Box 2492, Grand Central Station, New York, N. Y. 10017.

Bay State Man Serious After T-Way Area Crash

A 21-year-old Massachusetts man is reported in serious condition at Kingston Hospital suffering from multiple chest injuries sustained in a Thruway accident a half-mile south of Kingston last night.

The 8 p. m. mishap was one of three in Ulster County yesterday in which five persons were hurt.

The seriously injured man, John Nessier of 187 Richardson Drive, Needham, Mass., was a passenger in a car being driven by Edward Carnes, also of Needham.

According to Thruway State Police, the Carnes car was traveling north when the driver failed to see a disabled vehicle partly parked in the driving lane and struck it in the rear.

The operator of the disabled vehicle, Jeanette Dooley of Jamaica, L. I., sustained a lacerated left ear. Both she and Nessier were taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctors Ambulance.

Trooper Peter Warnecke arrested Carnes for driving while intoxicated. Arraigned before Justice Robert T. Ferrigan of the Town of Kingston, Carnes was released for a hearing Nov. 27.

Following a Town of Olive accident yesterday afternoon on Rt. 28, Deborah Malcus, 12, of Woodstock, complained of neck and head pains. The girl was a passenger in a car driven by her father, Eugene Malcus, 44, which was struck in the rear by a vehicle operated by William J. Potts, 22 of River-side, N. J. according to reports.

According to State Police, both cars were traveling east with the Malcus car in front. The Potts vehicle passed another car just as the Malcus vehicle made a left hand turn. Trooper J. N. Lang investigated.

In a Hurley accident yesterday, two young sisters, Joan and Elizabeth Coleman received lacerations and contusions and were treated at released.

Joan, 10, received a lacerated lip and right leg and abrasions of the face. Elizabeth, 9, received contusions of the left leg and a lacerated scalp.

According to Trooper Terry Rodland, the girl's father, Daniel J. Coleman, 36, of Rt. 3, Morgan Hill Road, Kingston, was backing his car out of his tree-lined driveway and failed to see an oncoming car.

The vehicle which struck the Coleman car was operated by Thomas E. Venti, 44 of R.D. 2, Kingston.

Pearl Tapioca is a product made from moist manioc starch that is steam heated in copper pans and stirred constantly until small gelatinized masses form. These are dried then passed over rollers for smoothing.

Local Church Joins Drive For Biafrans

Members in Kingston together with those of other Seventh-Day Adventist churches around the world will take a special relief offering Nov. 30 to aid suffering victims of the fighting going on in East Nigeria. An advance of $50,000 has already been sent to the famine-stricken areas of Biafra, making a total of $100,000 given by the church to date for this purpose.

A firsthand report of the activity in Biafra was recently given by Dr. Sherman Nagel at the church's biennial council in Toronto, Ontario. The doctor, a veteran of 22 years medical work in Africa, returned to the U.S. last month.

Together with his wife, he operated a 60-bed hospital of the church in Northern Ngwa County in the secessionist state since 1964. Nearly all the patients of the hospital are civilians, he said, suffering from advanced stages of starvation.

He told the church's top 300 officials at the Toronto meeting that "quite apart from the tremendous need for food, the people in East Nigeria have suffered immense material privations. Many of them have only a few rags they wear, having fled from their homes, traveling many miles on foot" before the advancing armies.

"Their needs are staggering," he said. "You've got to see it to believe it."

The in-patient list of the hospital had swollen to 90, he said, and the out-patient clinics "brought in a daily flow of from 200 to 300."

Ex-Dean Dies
ITHACA, N. Y. (AP) — Robert Sproule Stevens, dean of the Cornell University Law School from 1937 to 1954, died Sunday in Tompkins County Hospital here after a brief illness. He was 80.

Stevens, a native of Attica, joined the Cornell faculty in 1919.

From 1926 to 1948 he served as New York State Commissioner on Uniform Laws, and from 1957 to 1964 as chief consultant to the joint legislative committee to study revision of corporation laws.

'The man from the paper' is a teacher for boys in a class by themselves

Your newspaperboy manages a business of his own. And that's why having a newspaper route can be so important to a boy. He earns his own money on the route, and he learns the basics of doing business. He buys his papers from us, he sells them to you. He is salesman, deliveryman, collector, and bookkeeper.

Yet while he has a business of his own, he is not entirely "on his own". The man from the paper is there—in his corner with friendly counsel and guidance. He knows boys and he makes his career working with boys. He also knows business methods—the ways in which a boy can make a success on his route. These he passes on to the boy. He is a teacher and the class he conducts is for boys "in a class by themselves".

If you think it would be worthwhile for your son to acquire the valuable lessons that come with newspaper route management, phone or write us today—

Dear Abby

Boyish Figure Upsets Mom

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
[© 1968 by Chicago Tribune-
N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: I can't believe I'm sitting down to write this letter. I am desperate.

Yesterday I read an article in the newspaper about a man becoming a woman thru an operation they call "transsexual." They ran a picture of "her" and she is gorgeous! The judge says that "he" is a "she" now. Her measurements are 40-23-37.

What I am getting at, Abby, is this: I am a born woman of 25 and my measurements are 32-23-37. I've sent for all the creams and exercises I've seen advertised to build up the bust, but nothing has helped me. I want more than anything in this world to have a beautiful bust. I could cry. No one knows how I feel. I tried walking topless across the room once and my husband didn't even turn his head. I've had three children but I don't feel like a woman with this boyish shape of mine. If a man can become a woman and get shots to give him a 40 bust, why can't I get those shots?

DEPRESSED

DEAR DEPRESSED: I don't know where the "he-turned-she" got the shots, but I do know they are illegal in the U.S.A.

DEAR ABBY: Here is a situation which is presently baffling some very dear friends of ours:

Their 23-year-old college graduate son (I'll call him Dick) had a date with a beautiful 19-year-old college girl (I'll call her Mary). They dated occasionally, but there were no commitments on either side.

One night when Dick and Mary were coming home from a date, they had a terrible auto accident. Dick was not exceeding the speed limit, he was cold sober, and it was not his fault. (He was forced off the road by an on-coming car.) Dick was only slightly injured, but Mary was nearly killed. Her back and pelvis were broken and she will probably never walk again. Also, her once-beautiful face was all cut up and she will need a lot of plastic surgery for years to come.

Mary's parents called on Dick's parents and suggested that since it was Dick's "fault" that Mary's life is ruined, Dick should marry her. What is your opinion? No names or city, please.

FRIENDS

DEAR FRIENDS: How does Dick feel about this? And Mary—what are her feelings? Mary's parents may mean well, and they have my sympathy, but if such a marriage could be arranged (which is doubtful) it would probably be a disaster.

DEAR ABBY: The recent "Now I've Heard Everything" letter was just that. It was about the young couple who fought continually, then she finally went home to her mama and took everything, including all their wedding presents consisting of appliances, etc. That's the way it is when American brides walk out on their husbands. They take the wedding presents which were intended to be shared by both. So what's wrong with the neighbors giving the poor husband who was left with nothing a kitchen shower? I'm all for it.

SAME BOAT

DEAR SAME: Now that you put it that way, I agree with you. But I do think in the case of a split, the gifts from HIS side should remain with HIM, and those from her side she may take.

CONFIDENTIAL TO E. M. IN CHICAGO: Heed the wisdom in an old Jewish proverb: "Come for the inheritance and you may have to pay for the funeral."

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

HATE TO WRITE LETTERS? SEND $1 TO ABBY, BOX 69700, LOS ANGELES, CAL., 90069, FOR ABBY'S BOOKLET, "HOW TO WRITE LETTERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS."

Horoscope By SYDNEY OMARR It's In The Stars

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

FORECAST for Tuesday, November 19, 1968

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You could find that new approach helps in financial matter. Don't be afraid to break from tradition. Highlight originality, independence. Be a self-starter today.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Be receptive. Permit one close to you to seize initiative. You learn through observation. Consult expert in any legal question. Mate or partner expresses concern. Be sympathetic.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Some people you work with express lack of satisfaction. General restlessness prevails. Keep control of essential factors. Don't permit others to talk you out of possessions.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Good lunar aspect today coincides with romantic implications. Heart is likely to rule head. Enjoy yourself, but remember there is a tomorrow. Search for facts, direct answers.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Accent on environment, home, future. Some changes appear in wind. Be perceptive. Analyze statements, actions. Older individual may lack enthusiasm. Set example by being optimistic.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Short journey may highlight day. Family member needs something. You may be appointed as messenger. Maintain good humor. Avoid disputes with neighbors. You're headed in right direction.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Be wary where financial transactions enter picture. Take realistic view. Avoid false bargains. Stick to facts. Associate may be enthusiastic but could lack practical knowledge.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You get what you go after Corp.

today. Financial reward is indicated. Cycle continues high. Take initiative. Highlight independence and pioneering spirit. Make personal appearance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Avoid jumping to conclusions. You could be subject to rumors. Best to finish tasks at hand. Only when you complete project will you have all facts. Know this—proceed accordingly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): New contacts could develop into valuable friendships. Be open—give and you also receive. Member of opposite sex pays meaningful compliment. Express appreciation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Stress on how to achieve goal. Key is explanation of views. You need popular backing. This is obtained by receptive attitude. Tell your story, but also be a good listener.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Formulate plans. Catch up on calls, correspondence. Be in touch with one at a distance. Key is to broaden view. Discard petty thoughts. Accent wide sweep.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are inventive, capable of overcoming odds to achieve goal. Upcoming cycle sees you throwing off burden and beginning anew.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for SCORPIO, SAGITTARIUS, CAPRICORN. Special word to GEMINI: find out why some are reluctant to act on constructive suggestion.

superannuated (sue-per-AN-you-ayt-id) obsolete; old-fashioned
After listening to the district manager present his plans for the next year, the stunned trainee could not believe that such a superannuated proposal could even be considered by the board.
The old-fashioned school teacher, a woman whose superannuated habits were criticized by many parents, would not permit any student to misbehave in her class.
Both young ladies, studying the latest fashions for the coming season, had to agree that they thought that most of the new designers had superannuated taste.

Oswald: "Here is a hand under 'E' for Entry." South would have been better off letting his partner play at three no-trump but South was looking at 150 honors in spades and bid game in that suit."

Jim: "George points out that South lost the four spade contract by sheer carelessness. The way the cards lie, a heart lead would have beaten him automatically but West made his normal opening of the diamond king. South took his ace and promptly drew trumps. Then he led a club towards dummy. West ducked and South was in dummy with no way to get back to his hand. He led a diamond. West collected two diamond tricks and shifted to a heart, whereupon South had to lose a heart and a club trick."

By Oswald and James Jacoby

Jim: "George Coffin of Wal-tham, Mass., can sure cram a lot of bridge information into a little space."

Oswald: "Assume you have been looking over the new edition of his 'Bridge on Deck' which is a real summary of the elements of bidding and play."

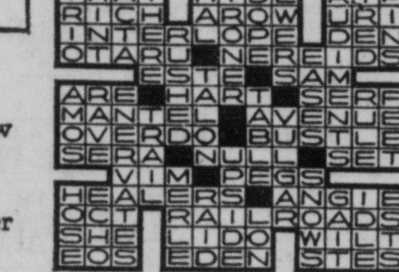

Jim: "His set of sample hands at the end of the book cover various points of play. He calls it the ABC of bidding, and covers each letter of the alphabet by taking a moderate amount of bridge writer's license."

Oswald: "The hand is really an example of the rule that declarer should draw trumps as soon as she or he can afford to do so, but no sooner. If South had stopped to study the hand he would have attacked the club suit at trick two. Assuming that West ducked that first club lead, he would have been able to get back to his hand with a trump. Then he would have been able to draw trumps and lead a second club to dummy. This would set up dummy's second club honor for a discard of a losing heart and South would have made his game." ## It's Turn Over Time for TV

NEW YORK (AP) — By order of the Nielsen ratings, seven and one-half television programs will be cut off the networks in midseason. During January and February, seven new candidates will be put in the schedules. It's the annual turn over.

Cherished Help

Until a couple of seasons back, a midseason start was something to be dreaded—and with good reason. Almost none had ever survived through the following September. But now, with the two hottest entries of the past two years—"The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour" on CBS and "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" on NBC—the most talked about shows on the air, a midseason start is something to be cherished. They both started that way.

ABC, which this season is having more program troubles than the other two networks, is dropping five shows and cutting its weekly output of "Peyton Place" in half. In an effort to bolster its ratings, it is taking on a half-hour show by the producers of "Laugh-In" plus an hour show by the team that first produced the Smothers Brothers show. The network obviously hopes lightning will strike it.

ABC's massive realignment of its Thursday night schedule involves canceling a suspense anthology, "Journey to the Unknown," that never caught on, and a comedy series, "Ugliest Girl in Town," that misfired. It is a salvage operation for three of its comedy shows, "The Flying Nun," "Bewitched" and "That Girl." The block of three once permitted ABC to capture the top ratings of Thursday nights, but all three have suffered this season. It is hoped they will be returned to Nielsen health by opening the evening with "The Flying Nun," following with the Marlo Thomas series—which will get it out of the path of CBS's powerful movie feature—and let "Bewitched" alone. Then will come the new revue show, "What's It All About, World?" for an hour, after which ABC will turn the final hour of prime time back to its affiliated stations to program, leaving NBC's Dean Martin and the movie fight it out for audience favor.

Friday Night Shakeup

Nothing was doing very well for ABC on Friday nights, so the network decided to drop the first three shows of the evening. It will replace "Operation: Entertainment" with a variety hour starring Welsh singer Tom Jones and fill the holes left by departing "Folies" and "The Don Rickles Show" with a couple of inexpensive game shows.

"Peyton Place" has been rapidly running out of steam this season, so it will be cut to one episode a week. The Wednesday night spot will be filled by a half-hour show, "Section 8," which will hopefully be somewhat left of "Laugh-In" and right of "That Was The Week That Was."

"My Friend Tony" is replacing "The Beautiful Phyllis Diller Show" on NBC, and the "Glen Campbell Show" is taking over from "Daktari" on CBS.

Office Cat

The primary purpose of cross-examination is to bring out the truth. But danger always lurks in the witness. Sydney Smith once said.

Sydney Smith—The best way of answering a bad argument is to let it go on. But when should the tap be closed against the "drip?"

Some years back Eddie Smith, a great trial lawyer, represented the Public Service Corporation in an action that resulted when a company vehicle backed into a horse-drawn junk wagon. Frank J. V. Gimino, a worthy legal opponent, represented the junk man.

Smith had a technique of bullying and smearing hostile witnesses. He employed all his savagery on a surprise witness produced by Gimino. This witness told a straight, eyewitness story. He had been at the scene, described the accident, and gave his opinion on how badly the horse had been injured.

On cross-examination, Smith snarled.

Lawyer Eddie Smith—What do you know about horse injuries? You're not a veterinarian, are you?

Mr. Small (the witness)—No. Again Smith sneered.

Lawyer Eddie Smith—That means that you only know a horse from a jackass when you see one. Is that it?

The witness was polite, but his answer threw the courtroom into such laughter that Smith and his case had to run for cover.

Mr. Small (the witness)—Yes, sir. I think so. For instance, I'd never take you for a horse.

A local lawyer was attending a funeral. A friend arrived late and took a seat beside him, whispering.

Mr. Gray—How far has the service gone?

The lawyer nodded toward the minister in the pulpit and said. Lawyer Green—He just opened the defense.

Last summer, hoping to inspire his workers with promptness and energy, a New York executive hung a number of signs reading DO IT NOW around his factory and office.

When he was asked some weeks later how his staff had reacted, he shook his head sadly. "I don't like even to talk about it," he said. "The cashier skipped with $4,000."

Nixon Aides on a Talent Hunt For Cabinet, Other Key Posts

By WALTER R. MEARS

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP)

President-elect Richard M. Nixon has his top advisers on a talent hunt, looking for men to serve in his Cabinet and seeking people for scores of other administration jobs.

He already has lists of potential Cabinet officers, and one top aide said Nixon has reached some preliminary, personal judgments on choices for those posts.

No Choices Yet

But the advisers also said that Nixon has chosen no one, even tentatively, at this point.

Nixon is known to have spent some time studying administration personnel prospects during his working vacation at this island resort.

But he is spending much of his time alone, considering the job problems and also working on initial drafts of the inaugural address he will deliver Jan. 20.

The Nixon talent hunt is proceeding on two levels. There are the top-level jobs to be filled in the Cabinet and just below. Two top advisers in that operation are John N. Mitchell, who was his campaign manager, and Leonard K. Garment. Both are partners in the Nixon law firm. Then there is an effort to find people, particularly young people, for the array of assignments at lower levels of the administration.

Ehrlichman Key Man

A key man in it is John D. Ehrlichman, already appointed as an assistant to the president. He is at work on the immediate manpower needs of the incoming administration, and on a permanent mechanism for seeking talent.

Through that system, which is to be outlined in detail within the next few days, the new administration hopes to find and retain a continuing supply of talented people, with the emphasis on youth.

Nixon has appointed three top aides to White House positions as presidential assistants: Ehrlichman, H. R. Haldeman and Bryce N. Harlow. It is possible that there may be additional appointments, perhaps two, to the White House staff at that level.

Nixon has made clear that he has an assignment in mind for Klein, who was his director of campaign communications.

Vaccine Due On Flu Strain

ATLANTA (UPI)—A vaccine will be available later this month against the new Hong Kong strain of flu, the National Communicable Disease Center (NCDC) reported.

Dr. David J. Spencer, director of the center, said Sunday a major drug company is expected to announce within a few days availability of the drug.

He said the chronically ill and elderly will be encouraged first to be vaccinated against the new strain flu, first discovered in the United States last September. He said the two groups are the most vulnerable to complications resulting from flu attacks.

Hubert to Florida, Post With Nixon?

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey moved his vacation to the U.S. mainland Sunday, just a few miles from President-elect Richard M. Nixon's hideaway.

Humphrey flew to Miami from the U.S. Virgin Islands after telling newsmen, "that's a private matter," when asked if he was in line for a job in the Nixon administration. He said he was not ready to disclose his future plans.

Questioned about a possible appointment as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, Humphrey replied: "I read about that too."

Humphrey, the Democrat Nixon defeated in the race to the White House, flew into Miami International Airport and drove to a hotel on the Atlantic coast without fanfare.

Aides to Nixon, who is staying a few miles down Biscayne Bay, said they had no prior knowledge the vice president was coming to Miami. They said there were no plans for the two men to meet.

A spokesman for Humphrey confirmed the vice president had not arranged to talk with Nixon while in the Miami area. Nixon and Humphrey had a smiling, handshaking meeting in Miami three days after Nixon defeated Humphrey for the presidency. Humphrey flew to Miami to visit Nixon before flying to St. Thomas to begin his Virgin Islands vacation.
